Russian forces in Ukraine's capital

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

RUSSIA stepped up its assault on Ukraine on Friday, targeting residential areas, schools and other civilian infrastructure as its forces advanced to the heart of the Ukrainian government — Kyiv — on the second day of bloodshed. On Day 1, 137 citizens were killed and 317 injured, according to the Ukrainian government.

Russian President Vladimir Putin called on the Ukrainian military to depose the country's president Volodymyr Zelensky. "It seems like it will be easier for us to agree with you (Ukrainian military) than this gang of drug addicts and neo-Nazis," Putin said referring to the Ukrainian leadership.

Experts say Putin will replace Zelensky with a pro-Moscow figure, who would keep the country firmly in Russia's circle.

Earlier in the day, reports emerged of pitched battles being fought on the streets of Kyiv between Russian and Ukrainian forces. The city was rocked by the sound of explosions and gunfires soon after dawn, sending people scrambling for cover.

According to Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba, Russian missiles rained down on the city, with some targeting civilian areas. With the Russian forces approaching the capital, Zelensky's government decreed a full military mobilisation. All adults between the ages of 18-60 now must stay in the country and fight the invaders. The president also made a dramatic call to Europeans with "combat experience" to volunteer to help defend his country. And, Ukraine's defence ministry urged citizens to stay strong and prepare Molotov cocktails and help neutralise the enemy. "We urge citizens to inform us of troop movements, to make Molotov cocktails, and neutralise the enemy," it said.

Russian forces first arrived on the outskirts of the capital on Thursday when helicopter-borne troops assaulted an airfield just outside the city, close to Obolonsky.

According to US intelligence officials, Kyiv would fall soon. Meanwhile, Britain and nine other northern European defence allies said that further sanctions were needed on Russia after its invasion of Ukraine. "The leaders agreed more sanctions were needed, including focusing on Putin's inner circle, building on the measures that had already been agreed," Downing Street office said following the call.

Meanwhile, Kremlin said Putin is ready to send a delegation to Belarus for talks with Ukraine. "No one plans to attack and oppress them, let them return to their families, and let us give the Ukrainian people a chance to decide their future," Russian foreign minister Sergei Lavrov claimed.

Pressure mounts on India, as Russia, US seek support

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the vote coming up on UN Security Council's draft resolution against the Russian aggression in Ukraine on Friday, pressure mounted on India with long-time ally Russia calling for support and another ally, the US, saying anyone who backs Moscow will be "stained by their association"

Russia on Friday said it expects India to back Russia when the resolution comes up for voting. "We highly appreciate India's deep understanding of the current situation as well as the reasons that led to it. We expect India to support Russia at the UN Security Council," Russia's Charge d'affaires Roman Babushkin said. Meanwhile, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken called Foreign Minister S Jaishankar and stressed the importance of a "strong collective response" against Russia's military operation.

Russia has been an ally of India for a long time and New Delhi depends on Moscow for critical defence hardware. On the other hand, the US's support is crucial for India in its disputes with China. A recent White House document on Indo-Pacific strategy said the "US will continue to support India's rise and regional leadership, working with India on a range of issues."

Evacuation of Indian students stranded in Ukraine started from the Romanian borders on Friday

Students from K'taka board bus to Romania

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Davanagere

FINALLY, stranded students from Chernivtsi in Ukraine, who were studying medicine at the Bukovinian State Medical University, have started their journey back to India through the neighbouring country Romania.

An MEA official said those travelling from Ukraine have reached Romania and they will be evacuated from Bucharest.

Priya from Kunduru village of Davanagere, who studies at BSMU, told TNIE that the Indian embassy has started evacuating them and buses were waiting for the students.

She said that it was a sleepless night for her on Thursday as she feared more attacks by Russia and felt safe only after boarding the bus. P4

CBI arrests ex-NSE executive Anand Subramanian

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai / New Delhi / Mumbai

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) arrested former NSE group operating officer Anand Subramanian in the wee hours of Friday, in connection with a 2018 stock market manipulation case, known as the co-location scam. He was arrested from his house in Virugambakkam in Chennai after a three-hour search and inquiry. After receiving a transit warrant, the CBI team took him to Delhi on Friday morning. Sources said the CBI team had been questioning Subramanian for the past two days in Chennai.

He had settled in Chennai and his entire linkages since 2013 through emails and other modes of communications are being reportedly verified by the agency.

According to CBI sources, Subramanian had been working in tandem with former NSE CEO Chitra Ramakrishna.

Ramkrishna, who succeeded former CEO Ravi Narain in 2013, had appointed Subramanian as her advisor and later elevated him as group operating officer on a salary of ₹4.21 crore.

The controversial appointment and later elevation, besides crucial decisions, were guided by an unidentified person who Ramkrishna claimed was a formless mysterious yogi dwelling in the Himalayas, a probe into Ramkrishna's email exchanges during the Sebi-ordered audit showed.

On February 11, Sebi charged Ramkrishna and others with alleged governance lapses in the appointment of Subramanian as well as his promotion.

Subramanian was questioned by the CBI and I-T authorities for many days following the SEBI report.

Markets regulator Sebi levied a fine of ₹3 crore on Ramkrishna, ₹2 crore each on the NSE, Subramanian, Narain, and ₹6 lakh on V R Narasimhan, who was the chief regulatory officer and compliance officer.

Contrary to reports in a section of media hinting that Subramanian is the 'Himalayan yogi' who was in touch with Ramakrishna through emails, the Sebi order of February 11 does not subscribe to this view.

HE IS NOT THE HIMALAYAN BABA

The news attributed to the CBI that the Himalayan yogi is Anand Subramanian is fake, TNIE has verified. On February 21, TNIE had carried a front-page story 'Himalayan baba may actually be ex-FinMin babu'. Subsequently, on Feb 23 and 24, columnist S Gurumurthy explained in detail how EY's thesis that Subramanian is the yogi is wrong

Disinformation campaign has begun to deflect attention from the real face of the scam Himalayan Yogi' Yogi is not one man. It is the cabal. Eid being Anand's doesn't mean he is Yogi - @sgurumurthy

ACB: Govt lost Rs 230 cr due to graft in BBMP

Conducts raids on 27 offices at 11 locations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) sleuths conducted massive search and seizure operations at 27 BBMP offices which revealed that staffers of various sections have allowed private parties to evade taxes, incurring losses of more than Rs 230 crore to the state exchequer.

Following complaints that BBMP staff and officers were involved in rampant corruption in connivance with advertising agencies, builders, and other companies, around 200 ACB sleuths raided 27 BBMP offices at 11 locations on Friday, and seized 45 files.

In the advertising section, ACB sleuths have found that the staff in connivance with private companies did not collect around Rs 230 crore. "The staff has not collected rent, annual fees, advertising fees, GST, and other charges to the tune of Rs 230 crore from advertising agencies which have constructed bus stops and skywalks on a public-private partnership. Colluding with them for financial gains, the staff caused losses to the state exchequer," an official release stated, adding that advertisements were allowed at bus stops without tender for the previous year.

Irregularities have been found in the transferable development rights (TDR) section as officials and staff have joined hands with their relatives, landowners, and middlemen. Allegedly the staff issued TDR fraudulently in Aduru, Rampura, Seegahalli, Whitefield, Varanasi, and other areas.

Kickbacks received

ACB teams have seized 21 files from the town planning section. Officers and engineers have allegedly received kickbacks from builders engaged in the construction of multi-storey buildings. The scrutiny of files in the engineering section showed two bills were raised for single projects and were cleared.

Bribes collected

The revenue section staff had collected bribes from property owners to allow lesser property tax and had not fixed the property tax for commercial buildings, apartments, as per rule, it was found. They have also favoured building owners by reducing the construction dimension in the records. "In some cases, they have also issued Khata including the government land to people who share boundaries of their property with government or kharab land," the release added.

Two malls, hosps favoured

The search revealed that revenue section staff did not collect property tax from a private hospital and two malls.

BBMP INACTION

Share info on potholes, flexes, says chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) chief commissioner, Gaurav Gupta on Friday asked citizens to be the Palike's eyes and inform him or the control room of potholes, flexes and banners in the city, on the sidelines of the Pulse Polio campaign inauguration in the city.

Although the corporation is doing its job, he said, the citizens are requested to share the information as the media had pointed out to him that despite high court orders, city roads still have potholes. BBMP staffers aren't doing enough to remove flexes and banners seen in many parts of the city, he was told.

Reacting to this, Gupta said that the zonal commissioners and engineers have been directed to act stringently. Citizens must share the locations and action will be taken. Engineers will also face action for not clearing them.

Pulse polio programme

The BBMP and the health department will jointly organise a pulse polio immunisation programme from February 27 to March 2, 2022.

The target this year will be to vaccinate 10,80,104 children below five years, across 141 planning units located in BBMP urban primary health centres, and in 3,404 vaccination booths across 198 wards.

More than 15,000 staffers will be mobilised for the programme while dedicated teams will visit slum areas and areas inhabited by migrant labourers.

Gupta said nodal officers are also being appointed to oversee and coordinate the coverage. Special mobile and transit booths will also be set up at schools, Metro stations, religious places, daycare centres, major bus transit points, market areas, shopping malls. Citizens can also dial 1533 to know the nearest pulse polio booth.

At Baiyappanahalli, use Platform 3 from March 3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

To facilitate work on the upcoming Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield (Reach-1 extension) line of Phase-II, only Platform 3 of Baiyappanahalli terminal will be open to passengers to board or alight from Metro trains from March 3. This will be in force for the next six months, according to an official release from Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL). At present, trains arrive and depart at three platforms at this terminal.

A senior Metro official said work on linking the existing Baiyappanahalli Metro station to the first pillar of the extension line was going on. "We have to remove some tracks and relay them for a distance of nearly 400 metres, carry out grading work and also raise the height of the wall. It will take us until August or September to complete all these works. Hence, we have to shut them for operations."

The extension line is slated for commercial operations by December this year.

Baiyappanahalli, being a terminal station, is bustling with crowds on all platforms. Details on how the entire passenger traffic would be managed on one platform is still not clear, despite repeated calls to BMRCL officials.

All varsities to switch to E-Office by March 1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Higher Education Minister Ashwath Narayan reiterated that all universities should submit files using the E-Office software platform.

Despite prior instructions to do so, a few universities continued to physically send files while the department has completely switched over to using E-Office system to deal with files, proposals, letters and other paper-based communication. Narayan ordered that all universities should switch to E-office system by March 1, adding that post March 1 all files sent physically will be returned.

The use of the software platform brought transparency and a speedy transfer of information between universities and the department, he said.

"Universities will become irrelevant if they fail to adapt to the present-day work patterns," the minister said. Also, he ordered the formation of a committee and asked for a report in two weeks regarding the implementation of the Unified University & College Management System (UUCMS), National Academic Depository (NAD) and digitization of universities, the initiatives to take place as part of the National Education Policy 2020.

Concern over regulations for pvt schools; symposium on NEP today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

With the National Education Policy 2020 (NEP) set to be implemented in schools from the upcoming academic year, stakeholders have expressed concerns regarding Chapter 8 of the policy.

A conflict of interest has arisen in Chapter 8 in framing regulations for schools by the Department of School Education, or in Karnataka, the Department of Public Instruction (DPI). Although the department undertakes monitoring and maintenance of the public education system in Karnataka, as well as governance and regulation, the policy states that the department undertaking regulatory actions poses a conflict of interest and "excessive centralised concentration of power" as the department can disproportionately impose regulations on private schools that do not apply to public schools.

The policy dictates that a neutral regulatory body be set up in each state, called the State School Standards Authority (SSSA). However, stakeholders state that the authority is yet to be formed in Karnataka.

As a result, the Karnataka Private School Managements, Teaching and Non-Teaching Coordination Committee (KPMTCC) along with other school organisations have come together to organise a symposium on effective implementation of the SSSA as part of the NEP.

"Multiple attempts to make an education policy have failed for refusing to recognise the private education sector as a stakeholder. NEP has taken this into consideration. But if this remains only on paper, the policy will fail like the previous ones," said GN Var, president of the Private Schools United Front in Jammu and Kashmir, during a press meet on the symposium.

The symposium, to be held from 9am to 6pm on Saturday at the Chancery Pavilion.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

26th February : In all ancient lore the sky is packed with meaning. The regular stars indicate those things which stay the same, such as 'I am a person'. The Sun, Moon and planets describe things which change and make us different, such as this person is practical and that one is a dreamer. And that why is important to know that today favours practical people, while tomorrow smiles on dreamers.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Complex planetary aspects now relate to monetary affairs. You are being warned to read all the small print before making a solemn and binding agreement and signing on the dotted line. Otherwise, you'll only be forced to change your mind in about six weeks' time.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Give priority to affairs of the heart and let someone special know just how you feel about them. Finally, a number of planets seem determined to support you and help you get your own way. And this means that circumstances will soon be pushing you along instead of standing in your path.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
If partners or close companions want a more comfortable lifestyle and an increasingly secure emotional situation, they must back you to the hilt and avoid doing or saying anything that will damage your confidence. Carry on counting your assets and making material security your priority.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
You know that you are going through a period of transformation, and that challenging planetary factors symbolise a new beginning. Now it is time to take stock of your progress so far in both personal and professional affairs. You can also draw together all the threads from the past.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
A financial or property matter will be settled to your satisfaction before long, enabling you to give your general well-being a higher priority. Devote at least some of your time to professional cares, but please don't wear yourself out.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Feel free to take the line of least resistance if that is what you need at the moment. Also, consider spending some time away from your usual base and environment, refreshing and reviving your spirits. You need a break, but just how soon you're going to get one is another matter!

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You are used to playing a secondary role and waiting in the wings, although recent events must have demonstrated to all and sundry that in future you must be treated with more care and consideration. You might think that a family member owes you an apology, but don't expect too much!

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You are by nature self-sacrificing and perhaps you now need a jolt to remind you that your first duty is to yourself. Friends and allies will support you in your desire to make more of your skills and talents. And partners will help you decide between two apparently irreconcilable options.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You must try to distinguish vague worries and imaginary fears from situations which genuinely pose a threat to your reputation. Then, you will see just how secure your position is in the long run. If you do get a good cash break, check it out, but only act with solid, expert support.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You are inclined to push yourself to the limit, yet now that more and more planets are lining up in your support you may take life a little easier without fearing that you will lose your grip. What you can do next is more uncertain, but what we can say is that you'll know when the time is right.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Now that your affairs are in a state of flux both at home and at work, you must try to realise that any victory will have a hollow ring if you sacrifice your prestige and trust in the process. One final word - whatever has happened this week is nothing compared with the stunning changes in your life over the next three months.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Others are sadly mistaken if they persist in the belief that they have got you cornered or somehow forced you on to the defensive. However, deft footwork may be necessary if you are to maintain your position. But, then, that is precisely what you're good at!

INDIA SIXTH HIGHEST IN NUMBER OF COVID ORPHANS

Paternal loss higher than maternal loss; children at risk of exploitation, sexual abuse

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru:

THE number of children estimated to have experienced the death of a parent or caregiver as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, has surged to more than 5.2 million globally, according to a new study that includes India, Iran and 18 other countries.

India becomes the sixth country in the world to record high Covid-associated orphanhood. Italy recorded the highest number, with 55.4 per cent of children in the 10-17 age group becoming paternal orphans. India recorded 49.8 per cent of children in this age group becoming paternal orphans, and 15.2 per cent becoming maternal orphans. In the 5-7 year age group, 17 per cent lost their father and 4.2 per cent lost their mother. In the 0-4 age group, 8.4 per cent lost their father, and 3.2 lost their mother. The study was published in The Lancet Child & Adolescent Health journal.

The study says that estimates of children affected by Covid-associated orphanhood and caregiver death nearly doubled in the six months from May 1, 2021 to October 31, 2021, compared with the number after the first 14 months of the pandemic (March 1, 2020 to April 30, 2021).

Additionally, in line with evidence that Covid-19 deaths disproportionately affect men, three out of four children worldwide who experienced the death of a parent, lost fathers. The countries covered in the study are Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, England and Wales, France, Germany, India, Islamic Republic of Iran, Italy, Kenya, Malawi, Mexico, Nigeria, Peru, Philippines, Poland, South Africa, Spain, USA and Zimbabwe.

Agreeing that children who experience the loss of a caregiver have an increased risk of poverty, exploitation, sexual violence or abuse, mental health challenges and severe distress, Dr Ashwini N of Mukta Foundation which works with child abuse, said, "Losing parents has left many children on the streets, the kind of abuse they have been going through, some even by their own relatives, is worse. Such children need to be strictly monitored by the Child Welfare Committees," she added.

The researchers call for evidence-based programmes for such orphans to be urgently incorporated into pandemic response efforts, including programmes that support economic strengthening, enhanced community and family support, and those that avoid placing children in institutional care.

The study's lead author, Susan Hillis, who completed the research during her tenure at the US Center for Disease Control and Prevention, says: "We estimate that for every person reported to have died as a result of the pandemic, one child is left orphaned or loses a caregiver. That is the equivalent of one child every six seconds facing a heightened risk of lifelong adversity, unless given appropriate support in time."

Thus, support for orphaned children must be immediately integrated into every national Covid-19 response plan. The researcher and lead author calls for repairing families that are safe, supporting affected children (through kinship care, foster care and adoption), and protecting children to reduce risks of poverty, childhood adversity and violence.

At school, kids with cough, common cold face stigma

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE last two Covid waves and cases witnessed at homes have set in a sense of fear among children, who have now started discriminating against their peers suffering from common cold and cough at school.

Paediatricians and psychologists said that teachers and school administration should play a crucial role in sensitising and creating awareness among children, especially those up to 12 years of age, as children of this age group need special attention. Teachers and parents should watch how children talk and correct them immediately.

"My son fell ill at school, but the school did not send him home immediately. When he returned home at the end of the day, he had a high fever and was crying. He told me that his friends in class refused to sit with him, saying he was suffering from Covid. They also stayed away from him when he was passing by. He is now saying that he has to return to school, though doctors have told us not to send him yet. My son says if he does not go to school, his classmates would think he was infected with Covid," said Suhas J, the parent of a fifth grader.

Another child is now refusing to set foot in school again, as she was discriminated against and one of her classmates told the teacher that the seat where she sat should be sanitised.

Paediatricians said children are falling ill because of infections like common cold, cough and fever and not because of Covid. "Parents play a crucial role in sensitising children and creating awareness. The immunity of children has come down as they have been holed up inside homes for the last two years. Teachers should take care of children, talk to them in class and create better awareness. Teachers play an active role and they need to be more sensitive," said Dr Preeti Galagali, a paediatrician and adolescent health specialist.

Psychologists said that since schools have opened after a long break, school administrations are focusing more on students of grades 9-12 and on completing the portions. Special camps should be held for children to increase awareness and for teachers on how to handle such situations.

"Special attention needs to be paid to children. Parental anxiety is wearing off on children and this should not happen. Children should be told not to worry. Schools should be on the lookout for such behaviour and the role of parents too is crucial," said Dr Pratima Murthy, director, Nimhans.

Daily caseload fluctuates, active cases dip

Bengaluru: There have been fluctuations in daily Covid-19 cases for the past five days in Karnataka. From 679 cases on February 21, the figure increased to 767 the next day, and decreased to 667 on February 23. It further reduced to 588 on Thursday but again increased to 628 on Friday, taking the state tally to 39,39,915. The state recorded 15 deaths, which took the state toll to 39,900. However, active cases slid to 7,518. In Bengaluru too, active cases went down to 3,973. ENS

Chetan Ahimsa gets bail, but to stay in jail over weekend

ENS @Bengaluru

ACTOR and activist Chetan Ahimsa, who was arrested on Tuesday on charges of promoting enmity by tweeting against a High Court judge, was granted bail by a magistrate court on Friday. Despite relief from the court, the actor will have to wait for release till Monday as the bail formalities need to be completed.

Chetan was arrested by the Sheshadripuram police on charges of intentional insult to provoke breach of peace and promoting enmity, hatred, or ill-will between classes. The police had registered a suo motu case against him for tweeting against a Karnataka High Court judge, who is part of a three-judge bench hearing a batch of petitions on the hijab issue.

A Chief Metropolitan Magistrate court had reserved the order on Wednesday. On Friday, Padmakar Vanakudre, the magistrate of 40th ACMM, granted conditional bail to the accused.

The bail conditions include furnishing of surety by a government employee who draws a Rs 1 lakh salary. Chetan is currently lodged in the Bengaluru Central Prison.

CRISIS IN UKRAINE

K'TAKA CREATES PORTAL, APP TO UPLOAD DETAILS OF STRANDED

Disaster management authority sends data to MEA on real-time basis

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has created a web portal and a mobile app, where people can upload details of students and others stranded in war-hit Ukraine.

The Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Authority, which is managing and monitoring the portal and the app that were created within 12 hours, stated that the portal (http://ukraine.karnataka.tech) collects relevant information on people from Karnataka who are stranded in Ukraine. Family members and friends can upload the details of those stranded in Ukraine. They have to provide basic information of the informant, relation with the stranded person and the stranded person's details, including the phone number, email id and the place where they are stranded.

Information collected from the app and portal will be sent to the control rooms of the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA). The KSNDMA control room will talk to the informants and give them the latest updates and collect information as required.

The portal also gives relevant information, like contact numbers and email ids of people concerned at the central government, state government, Indian embassy in Ukraine and also the helpline numbers. The KSNDMA release stated that the Chief Minister's Office, chief secretary and nodal officers are personally pursuing cases of stranded people with the MEA and Indian embassy in Kyiv. "The MEA is making alternative arrangements in mission mode for evacuation of Indian nationals since the Ukrainian airspace is closed," it stated.

As on Friday afternoon, data of 346 students was uploaded on the portal. Of them, 115 are from Bengaluru, 30 from Mysuru, 24 from Vijayapura and other districts. KSNDMA is sending real time data to MEA. On Thursday, senior IFS officer Manoj Rajan, who is also commissioner to the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Authority, was appointed as nodal officer to facilitate safe transportation of stranded people and students from Karnataka in Ukraine to their respective places.

Students to return to India via Romania

"WE don't know exactly which route they will take and how long it will take to reach Romania. But it is clear that we will come back to India from Romania," Priya said.

Thanking the Indian embassy, she said that her parents at Kunduru were worried about her safety. Shoukath Ali, father of Mohammed Abid Ali, said the evacuation of his son has finally taken place and he has reached the Romanian border along with his friends Sayeeda Habeeba and Misbah.

Marula Kumar, who has returned from Ukraine, said he boarded a flight in Kyiv on February 22 and reached Bengaluru the next day via Dubai. His friend Sudeep too was on the same flight. "When I came to know about the impending war between Ukraine and Russia, we approached our embassy and they told us to return to India. We also approached our college authorities, who assured us that online classes would be held," he added.

MP Dr GM Siddeshwara said that after TNIE enquired about the status of students, some students and parents too contacted him. He wrote a letter to Minister of External Affairs Dr S Jaishankar, requesting him to evacuate the students safely, he said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH a large number of students from Karnataka stranded in war-torn Ukraine, Chief minister Basavaraj Bommai spoke to Minister for External Affairs S Jaishankar on Friday, seeking the Centre's intervention to bring them back to Karnataka safely.

"The Union government is working out ways to evacuate the students, attempts are being made to shift these students through the road route as evacuation via air is not feasible. The Indian embassy has the details of the students and their locations. We have requested them to provide food and water to these students. Both the Karnataka government and the Union government have opened helplines," he said.

There is information about secure movement possibilities towards the western part of Ukraine and the Indian Embassy in Ukraine is in touch with stranded Indian students, he added.

The chief minister tweeted saying he spoke to Jaishankar and requested him to safely evacuate students from Karnataka. "He reiterated that the situation is being monitored closely and assured of students' Safe Evacuation," he tweeted. The chief minister told reporters that the Union minister has taken note of all the details.

"We have appealed to the Union government to ensure the safety of students. The Union Minister for External Affairs has appealed to the students to be careful till the war subsides," he added.

As hearings conclude, HC reserves verdict on hijab pleas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday reserved the verdict on a batch of petitions questioning legality of the order passed by the State government to ban hijab on school and college campuses, as marathon arguments which began a fortnight ago concluded.

A full bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justices Krishna S Dixit and JM Khazi, which commenced hearing on February 10, reserved the verdict after hearing arguments and counter-arguments on the issue. The petitioner-students from Government PU College for Girls at Udupi and several others challenged the government order dated February 5, 2022. On February 10, 2022, the full bench had passed an interim order restraining all students, regardless of faith, from wearing saffron shawls, scarfs, hijab, religious flags or the like within the classroom, pending consideration of the petitions. The court also made it clear that the interim order is confined to such institutions where the College Development Committees (CDCs) have prescribed a student dress code/uniform, and later clarified it orally that the order is applicable for degree colleges too.

Purdah or burqa may not be an essential practice but a headscarf or hijab is an essential part of Islam, argued Senior Advocate Devadatt Kamat, representing the students. The other counsels argued that the impugned order cannot stand, as it is based on religious discrimination. Advocate-General Prabhuling K Navadagi argued that wearing hijab is not an essential religious practice under Article 25 of the Constitution, and the petitioners have placed no materials to substantiate their claim to declare that wearing hijab is essential religious practice. If declared as claimed by them, it will affect the liberty and dignity of women, he argued.

The court also heard a petition filed by Ghanshyam Upadyay, a practising advocate from Mumbai, seeking direction to CBI or NIA or other such investigation agency to make a thorough investigation into the massive agitation in the country, and spreading across India after the order issued by the government on February 5.

K'taka gets Rs 375 cr from Centre as grant for ULBs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Union Finance Ministry on Friday released Rs 375 crore to Karnataka towards grants to urban local bodies (ULBs). This was part of a total of Rs 1,348.10 crore released to six states for providing grants to ULBs. The grants are meant for cities with less than 10 lakh population, termed as Non-Million Plus cities (NMPCs), including Cantonment Boards.

An official from Karnataka's Urban Development Department (UDD) told TNIE that the funds, granted under the 15th Finance Commission, will be utilised in 314 urban centres across Karnataka, each with less than 10 lakh population.

The 15th Finance Commission, in its report for the period from 2021-22 to 2025-26, has divided the ULBs into two categories — million-plus urban agglomerations/cities (excluding Delhi and Srinagar); and all other cities and towns with less than 10 lakh population (non-million plus cities). The Commission has recommended separate grants for them. Of the total grants recommended for non-million plus cities, 40% is basic (untied) grant and the remaining 60% is tied grants. Basic grants are utilised for location-specific needs, except for payment of salaries and other establishment expenditure.

On the other hand, tied grants for the non-million plus cities are released for supporting and strengthening the delivery of basic services.

Of the total tied grant, 50% is earmarked for sanitation, solid waste management and achieving star ratings as per the Ministry of Housing & Urban Affairs (MoHUA) guidelines. The remaining 50% is tied to drinking water, rainwater harvesting and water recycling.

"So far, there has been no communication about the sanctioned funds. It should come on Monday. Following this, the approvals and details will be obtained from the district deputy commissioners and works will start. Grants are sanctioned each year and the first instalment of Rs 375 crore had come in April 2021. This is an annual exercise. The details of the utilisation of the amount has to also be uploaded in a set format to MoHUA," a UDD official said.

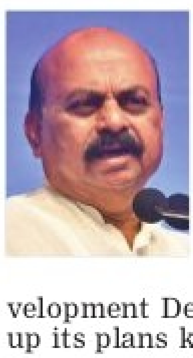
Draw up plans for uplift of poor among minorities: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SOME subgroups among the minorities are steeped in poverty and suitable programmes will be formulated for their development, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said on Friday.

Speaking at the inaugural of the Maulana Abul Kalam Azad Bhavan, built by the Minorities Development Department, the CM said the minorities should adapt to the fast-changing world to achieve their goals and join the social mainstream. "The 21st century is the 'Knowledge Century'. Children should be prepared to face the competitive world. We should help them utilise the opportunities and rise to international level," he said.



The CM suggested that the Minorities Development Department draw up its plans keeping in mind the poorest of the poor among the communities. "Children, who should be having books in their hands, are being made to toil. They should get professional guidance to pursue IT, engineering, ITI, IAS, IPS and other career opportunities, become economically empowered and join the social mainstream," he noted.

The Wakf Board should protect its properties and ensure that they are not misused. Wakf property should be used for the welfare of the community. Stringent action will be taken against those who violate the law in this regard, Bommai stressed.

All's well in KPCC: Siddu after meeting Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after former AICC president and Congress MP Rahul Gandhi met senior party leaders from Karnataka in New Delhi, top leaders of the state unit chanted the unity mantra and said there were no differences among the leadership.

Addressing a press conference along with KPCC president D K Shivakumar in Delhi on Friday, CLP leader Siddaramaiah said that Rahul had invited 16 senior leaders from Karnataka to take stock of the political situation and they discussed strategies to win the 2023 Assembly elections in the state. Reiterating that all was well in the state unit, the Badami MLA said it was only the BJP which was trying to project that there are differences in the state Congress. "As we are a democratic party, there may be differences of opinion, that's all," he added.

On the long-pending Mekedatu project, Siddaramaiah blamed the BJP's double engine government at the Centre and the State for the delay. "Only environmental clearance is pending. The BJP government has failed to get the clearance despite being in power in Karnataka for the last 31 months," he thundered. He said the party's padayatra demanding speedy implementation of the Mekedatu project will resume from Ramanagara on February 27 and conclude at the National College Grounds in Bengaluru on March 3. "About 25 per cent of Bengaluru's population has no access to Cauvery water. If the Mekedatu project is implemented, there will be no problem accessing drinking water for people of Bengaluru for the next 50 years. Also, we will be able to generate 400 MW of power," he added.

Siddaramaiah also blamed the Union and State governments for mismanaging the Covid-19 situation, resulting in the death of thousands of people in the second wave.

Hitting out at RDPR Minister K S Eshwarappa for his saffron flag remark, Siddaramaiah said BJP leaders neither respected nor loved the nation. "Though Eshwarappa has insulted our national flag, he has not been dismissed from the Cabinet. Even BJP national president JP Nadda has condemned his statement. Yet, CM Bommai and BJP state president Kateel are supporting himthe minister," he said.

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE murder of 26-year-old Bajrang Dal activist Harsha was "planned" days before executing it. He was logistically a soft and easy target because he lived close to some of the accused, informed sources have told TNIE.

The killers had allegedly planned his murder 10-15 days before they finally got him on February 20. "They had kept a close watch on his movements," the sources added. Harsha was fatally stabbed near Kamath petrol bunk late evening on February 20 in Shivamogga town.

"His murder was reportedly a message of one up-manship in the communally fragile district, which has been periodically used by politicians and community leaders. The fear of retaliation to Harsha's murder in Shivamogga, or elsewhere in the state, is not lost upon the police," the sources said. Ten people have been arrested so far for their alleged involvement in the murder case.

Both Harsha and his assassins have previous police records for indulging in communal violence. Whether his murder is linked to the hijab row is yet to be verified, but sources said that hijab row was a "catalyst" to his murder as he had reportedly taken part in the ongoing controversy.

Shivamogga had turned into a fortress after rampant vandalism on February 21 when, despite prohibitory orders under Section 144 CrPC, RDPR Minister K S Eshwarappa and Shivamogga MP B Y Raghavendra led Harsha's funeral procession. "Most of the people in the procession were not locals due to fear of identification," claimed sources.

Shivamogga, according to sources is a "politically active district" and a hotbed of "communal and political opportunism". A majority of the lower and middle-ranking police personnel like sub-inspectors and inspectors have better control in the region than the IPS officers, who are posted for a one-year tenure. The former are nurtured and have a close proximity with local politicians and elected representatives," claimed the sources.

"Politicians encash on the fragile communal demography, which thrives upon one-upmanship between the two communities. The use of commonly available contraband drugs like ganja by the youth, who indulge in crime and communal violence, is another cause for concern," added the sources.

Lack of access to quality higher education and employment opportunities have left a majority of youngsters in Shivamogga vulnerable to communal and hate politics. "They otherwise have nothing to identify themselves with or brag about. The fringe extremist outfits on either side look for such youth and make use of them to carry out their ideological agenda in return for identity," said sources.

Minor held for posting objectionable content

ENS @ Mangaluru

The Mangaluru city police have taken a minor into custody for posting objectionable videos targeting another religion on his Instagram page. Mangaluru City Police Commissioner N Shashi Kumar told the media that the boy, a resident of Konaje, works in a vegetable market in Bengaluru.

"The 17-year-old used to upload edited videos on his Instagram page 'Troll King 193'. The complainant, a resident of Mangaluru, while scrolling the Instagram page along with his friends, came to know about the videos and lodged a complaint," Kumar said. Based on the complaint, a team led by DCP Hariram Shankar verified the page. The boy has also confessed to have uploaded the videos and he has been handed over to a remand home.

He further said they have sought information from Facebook on a page called 'Mangalore Muslims' for uploading objectionable posts regarding Bajrang Dal activist Harsha's murder in Shivamogga. "We have already registered an FIR. Two persons from Manipal and Mulki were taken into custody. During investigation, it was revealed that the duo had liked the logo of the page and not any post, and they were released," he said.

He also said a WhatsApp group named 'Muslim Defence Force' has posted a message in the group warning Muslim girls on visiting malls and public places wearing burqa. He said that a report will be sought and action will be taken.

Hawaldar Altaf Ahmed, from Kodagu, who served in the AOC Regiment for 19 years, was killed in a blizzard while on duty. Condoling the death, CM Basavaraj Bommai tweeted, "I pay Infinite tributes to the immortal warrior who sacrificed his life for the nation."

18 firms to set up shop in K'taka, provide 15k jobs

'Shows trust global industry leaders have in State's commitment in the IT space'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS many as 18 large organisations have given their Letter of Intent (LOI) to set up operations in Karnataka, the Karnataka Digital Economy Mission (KDEM) said on Friday.

They will set up operations with significant investments directed towards building the ESDM (Electronics System Design and Manufacturing) ecosystem and generating over 15,000 employment opportunities for local talent in the State.

This announcement comes at a time when the government announced its Semiconductor Policy to promote the manufacture of semiconductor chips in the country. The LOI list includes companies such as Proxelera, Wuerth Electronic India, Virtulive Technologies and Rapture Innovation Labs, among others.

E V Ramana Reddy, Additional Chief Secretary of the Department of Electronics, IT & Bio-Technology, lauded KDEM at an event held here. "Over the last few years, the demand for superior technology products has seen significant growth, encouraging the need to strengthen the ESDM sector. Karnataka has always been at the fore of technology space, contributing significantly to the country's digital growth," he said.

These Letters of Intent and industry-wide acceptance of the ESDM initiative demonstrates the trust that global industry leaders have in Karnataka's commitment to be a leader in the IT and ESDM space, he added.

CPM meet to discuss roadmap for 'Nava Kerala'

ANIL S @ T'Puram

THE CPM has drawn up a draft route map for creating a new Kerala and the party's role in it. The document, detailing a 360-degree view on creation of a 'Nava Kerala', will be presented for detailed discussion in the party state conference slated to begin on March 1.

The paper is in line with the shift in the party's policy and outlook, prioritising development and good governance over class struggle to reap electoral benefits.

Along with the party's organisational report, the document on CPM and Creation of New Kerala will form the crux for detailed discussions during the state meet.

Continuity in power is obviously one target of the exercise. In addition, it aims at propelling the party's onward movement in the right direction.

What makes it all the more notable is its structure, relevance and timing. It is after more than six decades that such an initiative comes from a Communist Party.

In 1956, the undivided Communist Party's state conference in Thrissur published a document on Kerala's future development. Later, the 1957 EMS government formulated its developmental and governance policies based on this document.

Sources said after the discussions in the state conference the document will be made public and subjected to vetting by a democratic process. Opinions of experts, prominent personalities and the public in general on the paper will be collated.

It will also be presented for discussions within the LDF before being given the CPM's stamp of final approval. The attempt is hence to make it an authentic draft for Kerala's future development.

Though the document has continuity in governance for CPM as one of its targets, it won't limit itself just to that, said a senior leader. "This time around, the party has decided to bring out two documents - in addition to the work report, there will be a second document on the party's role in the creation of new Kerala.

"It will be mostly based on the manifesto, prioritising projects and initiatives to be taken up for the state. It will be a draft on the future path to be chalked out for the state, in addition to ways and means of societal interventions required to attain the same," said the source.

Labourer bludgeoned to death

Bengaluru: A 25-year-old man was found bludgeoned to death on a footpath in Kamakshipalya early on Friday morning. The victim, Satish B, a resident of Mandya, was a daily-wage labourer at the APMC Yard in Yeshwanthpur. A senior police officer said Satish may have been killed in a drunken brawl in the intervening night of Thursday and Friday. The patrolling police found the body and registered a case. Satish's sister, who lives in Hanumanthanagar, told the police that he had visited her house and borrowed money from her. He was staying alone in the city and was not married. Based on her statement, the police are on the look-out for the accused.

Three held, 80 kg ganja seized

IThe Mahalakshmi Layout police have arrested a gang of three men and seized over 80 kg of ganja (marijuana) from them. The accused had brought the contraband from Andhra Pradesh to sell it in the city. Police said they received credible information that a person was trying to sell ganja at Kamalammagundi playground in Mahalakshmipuram. They rushed to the spot, arrested the man and seized 350 gram of ganja from him. During questioning, he revealed that the ganja was brought by his associates from Andhra.

Woman kills granny accidentally, hangs self

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 25-year-old woman hanged herself after she accidentally shoved her grandmother against a wall leading to the latter's death at their house in Jnanabharati on Thursday evening. The deceased are Jayamma (70) and Mamatha (25), a BCom graduate, both residents of Maruthi Layout.

A senior police officer said around 4.30 pm, Mamatha quarrelled with Jayamma over an issue, and she might have pushed her grandmother against a wall. Jayamma started bleeding and collapsed. Shocked to see her dead, Mamatha locked herself in the bedroom and ended her life.

The incident came to light after Mamatha's brother Chetan returned from work and found the bodies. He alerted the Jnanabharathi police who shifted the bodies for autopsy after a spot inquest.

Preliminary investigation revealed that Mamatha was in depression after her 3-month-old child died due to a health issue. Her husband Manjunath, who runs a shop, was taking care of her well. A case has been registered, police said.

Man slips under train, rescued

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A 27-year-old passenger who rushed to board a train at Kalaburagi railway station to reach Bengaluru, was rescued from the jaws of death by an alert Government Railway Police constable. The incident took place at 9pm Thursday.

Anil rushed to board an unreserved coach on the Hassan-Sholapur Express which was departing from Platform 1, when he slipped between the platform and railway tracks. Following screams from the public, constable Praveen Basavaraj, who was patrolling the platform, rushed to rescue him.

Basavaraj told TNIE, "He had fallen in the gap between the door and tracks. He managed to hold on to the door handle. He was in a state of shock and became unconscious as soon as I saved him. We gave him water and revived him. He did not have any injuries."

The passenger was unable to give any information, except his name and age. "He said he wanted to go to Bengaluru. We helped him board the next train, Basava Express." The constable has been working with GRP for the past three years.

Man hacks receptionist to death with machete

T'PURAM: In yet another gruesome incident in Thiruvananthapuram, a 36-year-old man hacked a hotel receptionist to death in broad daylight in Thampanoor on Friday morning. Ayyappan, a native of Nagercoil in Tamil Nadu, was attacked at 8.30am when he was alone at the reception desk. The suspect, Ajeesh, was arrested within hours from near his house at Kollayil, Kalliyodu near Nedumangad. The police said Ajeesh committed the murder out of personal vengeance, the reason for which is yet to be learnt. "We are verifying his statements. Only when the process is completed can we tell what was the exact reason," said City Police Commissioner G Sparjan Kumar. Police sources, meanwhile, revealed Ajeesh had a tussle with Ayyappan when he stayed at the hotel last October.

Former AIADMK minister's bail plea rejected

CHENNAI: The bail petition of former AIADMK minister D Jayakumar was dismissed by the sessions court on Friday. He was recently arrested on charges of attacking a DMK cadre, along with his followers, and parading him half-naked in the public during the local body elections held on February 19. Principal sessions judge S Alli heard the arguments from the victim on Friday afternoon.

Tusker 'honeytrapped', relocated to Bhadra reserve

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH
@Haveri

A wild tusker that was roaming in Haveri district for the last three weeks, was 'honeytrapped' and caught by a forest department team.

Five elephants and 100 plus staff from various divisions of the forest department took part in the relocation operation that was conducted in and around the Guttal forest area of Haveri taluk. The foresters had left a cow elephant on Wednesday night in the forest area where the tusker was found roaming. By morning, the tusker was found grazing near the cow elephant and was tranquilized by the forest department team.

The tusker was wandering in Haveri district for the last three weeks creating fear among the villagers. Separated from its herd, 15-year-old tusker, had missed its regular corridor near Mundgod taluk of Uttara Kannada district and moved to the neighbouring Hangal of Haveri. To capture it, a total of five trained elephants including a cow elephant from Sakrebailu Elephant Camp of Shivamogga district were deployed for the operation.

Wild tusker captured with the help of five trained elephants in Haveri district

Over 100 forest staff including experts from Sakrebailu, Mysuru and Dharwad, were also part of the operation.

"As part of capturing the wild tusker, the forest officials planned to use a honeytrap trick. On Wednesday night, the trained female elephant was tied to a tree near a temple to attract the wild tusker and they were waiting at a temporary camp. On Thursday early morning, the wild tusker was roaming around the female elephant, and the experts tranquilised it," said a forest department official.

Haveri Deputy Conservator of Forests, Balakrishna S, said that the captured tusker will be relocated in Bhadra Tiger Reserve in Chikkamagaluru district. "The entire operation was completed in 35-40 minutes," the official said.

TACKLING ECONOMIC FALLOUT OF THE UKRAINE CONFLICT

The ability of policymakers to tackle persistent inflation is being tested once again, thanks to the deepening Russia-Ukraine conflict. Global crude prices breached $100 per barrel and if they stay elevated, it could topple both the RBI and the government's FY23 projections. Earlier this month, the central bank's Monetary Policy Committee stuck to its dovish stance giving growth a chance, notwithstanding commodity price shocks, rising geopolitical tensions and weak demand dynamics. RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das took the hard line on excessive inflation targeting stating that the output sacrifice required to tame supply-driven inflation can be high and argued that domestic dynamics should dictate policy not just by the outlook of developed markets. But that logic may well be turned on its head if higher crude prices delay the cool-off in inflation expected in mid-2022.

If the average price of the Indian crude oil basket touches $100 per barrel from the current $84.67, inflation will likely rise 52–65 bps, according to SBI Research. Even an average $90–100 per barrel could pose an upside risk of 90–100 bps to the RBI's inflation estimates of 4.5% for FY23. Going by the current runrate, fuel prices should be up by at least ₹9–14 per litre, but thanks to Assembly elections, petrol and diesel prices haven't moved a jot since November 2021. But it's unlikely that the government will sit upon its hands after March if oil prices remain northbound. The upshot is, the RBI's wait-and-watch mode is extended, which means, interest rate hikes may well be pushed to the second half of FY23.

The bigger worry for India though is the economic fallout of the Russia-Ukraine conflict, which will be felt across commodities, affecting current account deficit besides of course domestic inflation. Worse, any US-EU sanctions on Russia may impact regular trade too. Ukraine is an important exporter of agriculture products, so prices of wheat and corn may come under pressure. The Indian currency too will likely take a beating and even though the RBI is prepared with its forex reserves war chest, it should stand ready to preempt undue volatility.

TIME FOR PARTIES IN T'GANA TO STOP RHETORIC

The BJP and the Congress accuse Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao of corruption of monumental proportions. Not a day passes without the PCC chief A Revanth Reddy and the saffron party state president Bandi Sanjay predicting an imminent jail term for KCR. But if they really mean it, they ought to approach the judiciary for a court-monitored inquiry instead of tilting at the windmills. As the Centre is not bothered about the allegations levelled by their own partymen, one wonders if the BJP's loud talk is only an attempt to make KCR fall in line as he has, of late, been targeting the prime minister in the name of crafting an opposition coalition.

Congress chief Reddy also talks about the CM's "corrupt deeds", and says that the Centre's silence is proof enough that both KCR and Modi are working hand in glove, notwithstanding their public posturing. In fact, Reddy had asked the Union minister from Hyderabad G Kishan Reddy to help him get an appointment with the Union Home Minister Amit Shah to present documentary evidence against KCR so that the Centre could order an inquiry. If Reddy feels KCR is involved in corrupt deals, what is preventing him from approaching the courts? In such a scenario, one would wonder as to what crime had KCR committed. Even if cases are registered against KCR now due to pressure from the BJP, it will be construed as political vendetta.

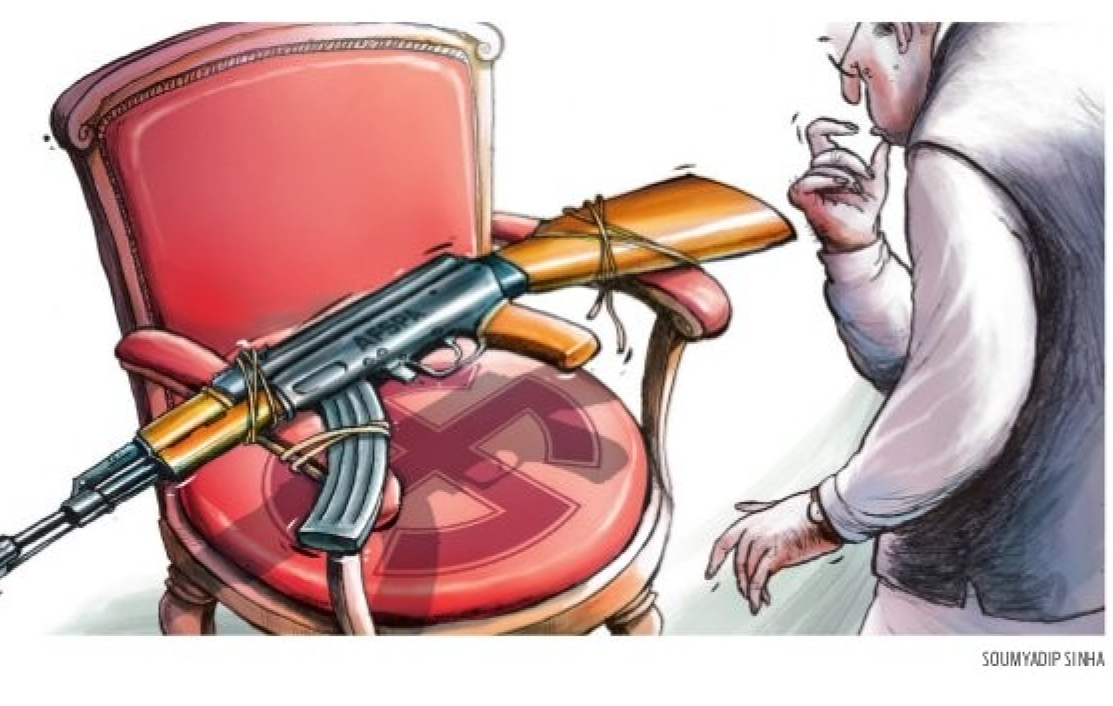
KCR, who has ignored the allegations, is now hitting back at the BJP leaders. He says it is not he but the BJP leaders who would go to jail as he would soon be moving the Supreme Court to expose the corruption involved in the purchase of Rafale jets. Remember how in 1988, Congress leader Dronamraju Satyanarayana had embarrassed the then Chief Minister N T Rama Rao by filing a petition in the AP High Court whose five-member Bench had found prima facie evidence in five of the 192 allegations of abuse of power. It is about time the parties stopped the rhetoric and approached courts if they feel there is merit in their allegations.

The ruling party was the last to release its manifesto and list of candidates for the upcoming Assembly polls in the state. What led to this?

HOW BJP'S MOVES IN MANIPUR HAVE BOOMERANGED

PRADIP PHANJOUBAM

Editor of Imphal Review of Arts and Politics



SOUMYADIP SINHA

For whatever reason, the ruling BJP was the last among the major parties in contention in the forthcoming elections to the 12th Manipur Legislative Assembly to release its election manifesto. It was also the last to announce its list of candidates for the 60-member House. For a party in power in the state and at the Centre, and therefore the strongest contender, this is rather intriguing, but the answers are not entirely impossible to fathom.

Both of these events betray certain inherent problems in the party. The first is of being overweight on account of a spree of encouraged defections from other parties to swell its ranks, leading to the unenviable situation of several candidates fighting for each of the party's 60 tickets. The second has to do with the state BJP's lack of autonomy from the party's central command in taking decisions even on local issues.

Since the issue of the delayed manifesto is more recent, the document having been released only on February 17, just 11 days before the first of the two phases of polling on February 28, it deserves a closer look first. The second phase of polling is scheduled for March 5.

Following the botched ambush on December 4 near Oting village in Nagaland's Mon district by Army para commandos based in Jorhat, leaving 14 civilians dead, demands for the repeal of the Armed Forces Special Powers Act, 1958, a draconian law reviled across the Northeast, returned from a longish hibernation explosively.

The Central government, however, indicated strongly that it would not concede to the popular demand. By a Supreme Court directive, the Act requires a review every six months, and in Nagaland, amidst the Oting outrage, AFSPA's last lease was due to lapse. Despite a unanimous decision of the Nagaland Assembly to stand against further extension of the Act, the Centre intervened to extend the state's disturbed area status, and with it AFSPA, for another six months from December 30.

In Manipur, interestingly, the last extension of AFSPA lapsed on November 30, but probably not wanting to annoy the public ahead of the election, the state government pretended amnesia and did nothing. Oting and its aftermath made this all the more sensitive, but the state's BJP government saw what the Centre did in Nagaland. Probably instructions also came to it directly from the party high command to do the needful, and on January 8, a month and eight days after it lapsed, the Manipur government decided to extend the state's disturbed area status and AFSPA.

Quite atrociously, this extension was with retrospective effect from December 1 and valid for one year, disregarding the Supreme Court's recommendation for half-yearly reviews. Legal experts are of the opinion that the retrospective extension of any law is untenable and goes against Article 20(1) of the Constitution. They also point out that this is a very bad precedent, for now, a person can be convicted for any act perfectly legal at the time of their commission by making a law that prohibits it and then retrospectively applying the law.

Unfortunately for the state BJP, this was about the time other political parties were releasing their election manifestos, and all of them responded to the popular sentiment and promised a campaign to have AFSPA repealed. Quite obviously the state BJP was in a quandary for it had just a week or so ago extended AFSPA in anticipation of what the party's central command would want, and therefore could not, with any sense of sanity, say it stood against AFSPA.

In the week before the BJP manifesto was released, state party leaders including the Chief Minister N Biren Singh tried to soften public attitude, saying his government too, if it returns, will ultimately try and convince the Centre that AFSPA should be repealed but for now such a move was not appropriate.

Sure enough, when the BJP manifesto was finally released, the single-sheet declaration was completely silent on AFSPA. As to whether this will have an impact on the BJP's electoral prospects is not so straightforward, for, in Manipur and the Northeast, gut-level politics and electoral politics work on different planes. This was also demonstrated during the protest against the Citizenship Amendment Act. Assam and Manipur vehemently opposed it, still, a majority in both states voted for the party that moved it.

Interestingly, the rather brief manifesto made it to most newspapers in the state as a full front-page colour advertisement. It is replete with sops and freebies, such as promises for awards of laptops and mopeds for meritorious students, without however specifying how many students at the top end of public competitions would be eligible for these awards.

The answer to the other puzzle of delayed announcement of candidates of the BJP is now public. At its core was hubris that blinded the party to certain flaws in itself. To all disinterested observers, it came as a surprise that the BJP missed the point that all the political turncoats who shifted affiliation to it would have little interest in its ideology, and what actually gravitated them to the ruling dispensation was the lure of power alone. Most of these turncoats were from the Congress too. Refusing to see this undercurrent, the state BJP instead continued flaunting this in its report card to the party high command to show that it was contributing its mite to the effort to erase the Congress from the country.

As witnessed, most of the important turncoats from the Congress ended up supplanting original BJP adherents in the contest for party tickets. This resulted in chaos and the outward migration of politicians and workers from the BJP to other parties when the former's ticket list was finally announced on January 30. Whether this splintering of its vote bank will be enough to deprive the BJP of its electoral advantage as the ruling party will only be known on March 10 when the results are declared.

The BJP in Manipur was in a quandary for it had just extended AFSPA in anticipation of what the party's central command would want. Therefore, it could not pretend that it stood against the draconian act

AGGREGATION IN AGRICULTURE IS STILL A CHALLENGE

ASIT TRIPATHY, IAS (RETD)

Former Chief Secretary, Government of Odisha

The average landholding size in India is shrinking with the increase of rural population and fragmentation of families. Around 88% of households have landholding below two hectares with 0.5 hectare as the median size (Situation Assessment of Agricultural Households and Land and Livestocks Holdings of Households in Rural, 2019). This is a structural problem the nation has to contend with. Clearly, this militates against scale and makes attempts at aggregation a complex challenge.

However, there is a silver lining. In recent times, there has been a spurt in the number of entrepreneurs venturing into agri-startups that are connecting farmers. The increase in mobile connectivity and low price of data have aided their reach. More than 1,300 agri-tech start-ups are facilitating a supply chain of inputs and outputs, market linkage and access to financial services. The past five years alone have witnessed a 9x increase in institutional funding to agri-tech start-ups. During 2014–2019, the sector attracted $1.7 billion compared to $0.2 billion in the preceding five-year block. Omnivore was the first venture-capital (VC) firm to invest in agri-tech way back in 2010. Since then, investments from VC firms like AgFunder, Accel India, Aavishkaar Capital, Sequoia Capital, etc., affirmed the growing interest amongst risk investors in agriculture and allied sectors with a total investment of $2.1 billion during 2021, a 97% jump from 2020. Investment analysis shows that the addressable market will be $24.1 billion by 2025.

Proliferating agri-tech startups are providing interesting solutions. Operational across 20 cities and collaborating with more than 50,000 farmers, Ninjacart is currently India's largest agri-tech company providing technology-driven supply chain solutions for fresh fruits and vegetables delivered from farm to retail stores in less than 12 hours. Gurugram-based farMart is India's first Software-as-a-Service (SaaS)-based platform operational across 30 states, connecting 1.4 million farmers with more than 60,000 retailers selling their produce at competitive prices. Patna-based agri-tech startup 'Dehaat' has created an online platform for end-to-end solutions from sourcing seeds to market access. Through a robust network of 3,000 micro-entrepreneurs, 7 lakh farmers can potentially procure agriculture inputs online and sell their produce. Milk Mantra in Odisha is the first VC-funded agri-food venture in the dairy sector, which today is connected with 75,000 farmers to source milk.

Agri-tech innovations do provide alluring prospects of aggregation of crops, fruits and vegetables, as well as fish and meat products. But typically, the promoters and investors are looking at rural backyards of metros and Tier-2 cities. The footprints of most of the new companies can be traced to western and southern India, accounting for almost 50% of the total agri-tech startups. Therefore, we need to have a solution that has much larger relevance, especially in the regions that historically have low farm incomes, i.e. central, eastern and northeastern India.

The Centre has taken initiatives for aggregating agricultural produce from farmers by creating an online portal for the National Agriculture Market (eNAM). The Small Farmers Agribusiness Consortium (SFAC) aims to register all 2,477 regulated markets and 4,843 sub-market yards on the portal, eventually, to promote a real national common market for individual farmers and Farmer Producer Organisations (FPOs). Currently, 1,000 mandis are registered of which only 50% are trading online (enam-gov.in, 2022). However, it is to be noted that there are no service providers who are registered on eNAM to provide logistic, packaging, weighing, grading and sorting services. The platform is linear without integration of support services and has not lived up to its objectives so far. In most states, the trading is still intra-state.

Organising farmers into collectives may work. Formation of FPOs is now an official strategy of both the Centre and the states. Multiple central bodies like the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD), SFAC, National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation (NAFED) as well as the state agencies have been tasked to form the FPOs. The thrust is to form companies and appoint professionals to streamline their functioning. While the bigger FPOs in western India, particularly in Maharashtra and Gujarat, were organically the offshoots of genuine cooperatives, elsewhere the majority of the FPOs are top-down official initiatives.

One of the key concerns faced by small and marginal cultivators and farmer collectives is constraints of marketing. Various models of informal certainty exist in the ground. One of them relates to form of contract farming. As a model, contract farming aggregates agricultural produce and assures the cultivator that his produce will be bought. In the year 2003, the Government of India circulated a Model Contract Farming for consideration of states. In the next decade, many states made pragmatic moves to adopt contract farming and gave statutory powers to the framework.

However, contract farming continues to be adopted in various informal ways across the country. Exporters, processors, traders and even medium and small agri-sector marketers engage with farmers and support the pre-harvest and post-harvest operations. They facilitate supply of seeds and also agri-credits. We have witnessed a similar relationship in fisheries and animal husbandry sectors like sourcing broiler meat and eggs through prearranged agreements. Tamil Nadu is the only state to have passed a Contract Farming Act in 2019. Some of the state governments have passed ordinances to facilitate and regulate contract farming. Even in the Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) Acts patterned after the Model Act circulated by the Government of India in the past, there is a provision of contract farming in most states.

Nevertheless, there is a lack of open support for contract farming because of several compulsions. Farmer lobbies and advocacy groups continue to look at corporates and large players with suspicion. The farmers are perceived to be victims of corporate greed. However, like in other sectors of economy, private players need to enter into agriculture. Demand and supply have to play a role in enhancing productivity and competitiveness. It is hard for small farmers to access the national market; they will continue to be at the mercy and vagaries of price at local markets unless more organised players partner with farmers. The engagement must not only protect farmer's interests but also bring in more efficient management to the entire supply chain. The various challenges faced during the journey of food from farm to fork is daunting and large infusions of capital and technology will ensure that all sides win.

India in an unenviable spot

This is with reference to Cold War II begins (Feb 25). As expected, the United Nations proved a mute spectator, and NATO and the EU have kept away from any military intervention while promising severe economic sanctions against Russia. The genesis of the invasion can be attributed to the fact that NATO nations are increasingly isolating Russia commercially and diplomatically. India is in an unenviable position, as her dependence on Moscow is much more than that of the US.

Rapport might not suffice

PM Modi enjoys a good rapport with Putin but the camaraderie might not extend to the level of the president lending an ear to the PM's appeal to call off military operations as the Russian dictator's mind appears to be set on overthrowing the regime in Ukraine and taking full control (Modi talks to Putin, urges immediate end to violence, Feb 25). India's concern now should be the safety of her citizens in Ukraine, most of them students pursuing their education from various universities.

Fly home stranded Indians

The Russian invasion of Ukraine is most unfortunate. Indian students in the country are exchanging frantic messages not knowing how to reach a safer place. Despite Russia saying that it did not attack heavily populated areas in Ukraine, the world saw plumes of smoke rising from the Ivano-Frankivsk Airport that was destroyed by the missiles launched by Moscow. The Indian government has to hasten its diplomatic effort to bring home the stranded citizens before it is too late.

Culling as the last resort

This is with reference to Rethinking the wildlife protection strategy (Feb 25). The suggestions made in the article for revamping wildlife protection deserve serious consideration. However, controlled culling of wild animals that escape from national parks should be resorted to only if other measures to control their numbers fail.

Stop rewarding partymen

The editorial (Pension no way to reward party cadre, Feb 25) has rightly pointed out the issues when a state government proceeds with the scheme of pleasing the party members by appointing them as the personal staff of ministers. Though proletarian and pro-poor, communist ideologies are waning across the globe. But by electing the Left government for a record second time in Kerala, the people showed their faith in the party. This faith should not be belied by the LDF. Withdrawing the scheme will be the right way forward.

ASSEMBLY ELECTION 2022 DECIDE

Cash, booze & drugs worth ₹1K cr seized

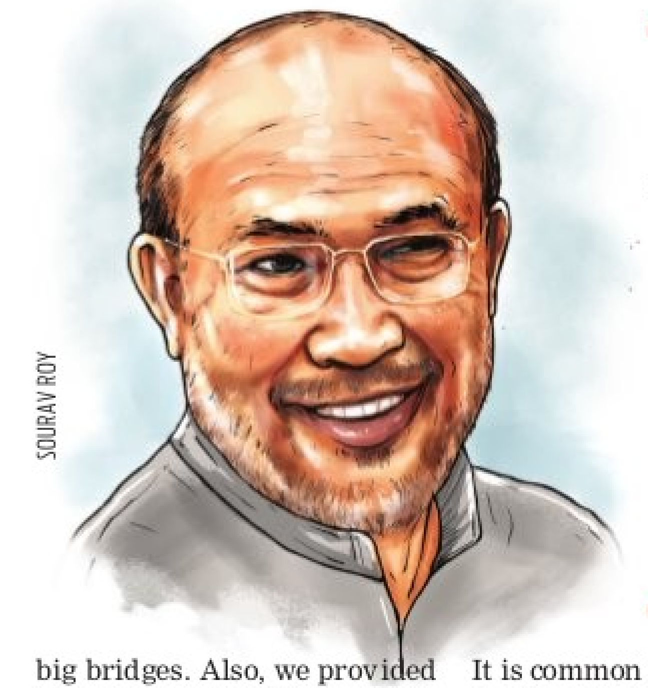
NEW DELHI: Enforcement agencies have seized cash, liquor and drugs worth more than ₹1,000 crore in the Assembly polls in UP, Uttarakhand, Punjab, Manipur and Goa. Punjab topped the list of states, with seizure of over ₹510 crore, followed by UP where ₹307 crore was seized. The corresponding seizure was ₹300 crore in the 2017 polls of the five states. UP topped in liquor seizure (worth ₹54 crore) and Punjab topped in drugs seizure (worth ₹376 crore).

'Non-Congress govts kept UP backward'

AMETHI: Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra (picture) on Friday blamed successive governments of rival parties in UP for its backwardness, forcing people to migrate to other states. Taking a swipe at PM Modi, Rahul Gandhi said he has been working only for the billionaires, who do not give employment. The Congress leaders asked people to vote for their own good and children, and not on emotional issues of caste and religion.

BJP has no strong rival: Manipur CM

Favours AFSPA withdrawal, but national interest needs priority due to border with Myanmar



OUTSIDE a crowded market in Imphal, a hoarding with pictures of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh urges people to vote for the BJP so that there is no more tear-gas shelling and the mothers don't have to shed tears anymore. In an interview, Singh tells Prasanta Mazumdar why the BJP will be able to retain power.

What are your expectations from the elections?
I believe we are going to get 40 plus seats.

Can you give the reasons behind such a confidence?
Prior to the formation of the BJP-led government in 2017, there was turmoil in the state. There were frequent bandhs and blockades. The relationship between the Imphal Valley and the hills was strained. But, over the last five years under our government, there was no bandh or blockade. The relationship between the valley and the hills has also improved tremendously.

The law and order situation was precarious and as such, the entire state used to get closed after 5pm. Now, the shops remain open even up to midnight. Before 2017, only 25,000 households of Manipur were covered under tap water. Under Prime Minister Narendra Mod*iji*'s guidance, we have made the service available to 3.5 lakh households. We have set a target of covering all the households by this December. We have also improved road connectivity. There was not a single bridge on the Imphal-Jiribam highway. We have built two big bridges. Also, we provided free medicines and ration to the people during the pandemic. We were able to set up oxygen plants and provide ICU beds across districts. So, these are the few things that we believe will help us get through.

Will BJP continue its alliance with National People's Party (NPP) and Naga People's Front?
I firmly believe we can form the government on our own. A BJP government will be there.

Which party, do you think, is the BJP's principal rival?
I don't see a strong rival this election. Wherever I go, I feel people are enthusiastic about and supportive of the BJP.

The NPP alleged its candidates and workers are being targeted by the BJP with the help of militants, particularly in the Kuki areas of hill districts. What would you say?
It is common that there will be allegations and counter-allegations during any election. In fact, in some areas, our candidates were manhandled by the NPP workers. Recently, in Andro constituency, the driver of former minister Shyamkumar was shot at by the NPP workers. As regards the rebel groups which signed separate suspension of operation agreements, the Election Commission as well as the state government has passed instructions that they should remain confined to their camps so that they cannot influence voters.

If you form the government again, which are the areas you will give more focus?
We will work on self-reliance and employment. Due to the pandemic, we could not complete the process to fill some vacant posts. We will also try to ensure that peace continues to prevail in the state. I will continue with the 'Go To Hills' project. It has helped a lot in bridging the gap between the valley and the hills among others. The 'Chief Minister-gi Hakshelgi Tengbang' health insurance scheme has been very effective. It provides cashless treatment to the poor and provides a cover of up to ₹2 lakh per eligible family per year. If we are voted to power again, we will increase the amount to ₹5 lakh. I believe public health should be of priority.

THE CHIEF MINISTER'S HEALTH INSURANCE SCHEME HAS BEEN VERY EFFECTIVE. IT PROVIDES CASHLESS TREATMENT TO THE POOR AND PROVIDES A COVER OF UP TO ₹2 LAKH PER YEAR. IF WE ARE VOTED TO POWER AGAIN, WE WILL INCREASE THE COVERAGE TO ₹5 LAKH

Will the exodus of BJP leaders who were denied tickets affect the party in any manner?
We had disputes in 16 seats over distribution of tickets. I have solved the problem in 14 of them by inviting and sitting together with all concerned. We are now united in these seats. But dispute remains in two seats.

Why was the BJP silent on the demand for withdrawal of Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act in party's election manifesto?
I favour its withdrawal but Manipur shares an international border with Myanmar. I have to see national interest.

A question has arisen who will don the chief minister's mantle if the BJP retains power. Is there a problem going on in the BJP on this issue?
This issue crops up in all states, including Uttar Pradesh. The campaign in Manipur is being led by the incumbent CM. I don't want to say much on this. The BJP usually does not name its CM face. As far as Manipur is concerned, it will be decided by our central leaders. My job is to strengthen the party and ensure we get the majority.

POLL WATCH

HOBBESIAN FEAR PRIMARY DRIVER OF BJP'S CAMPAIGN

IN the history of modern political philosophy Thomas Hobbes, the seventeenth-century English philosopher, holds a special place. Hobbes tried to marry up protection with total submission to the authority of the state. His key insight that without the centralising force of the state life of man can turn to "solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short" still animates modern politics. While modern liberalism may not have accepted this, his idea of security being the fundamental problematic of modern statecraft is indisputable.

The central plank on which the BJP is fighting the elections in Uttar Pradesh seems to be this paradigmatic Hobbesian insight. From development to corruption to women empowerment, every issue is couched in the language of security. It seems that routinised campaign categories of Vikas (development) and Samman (dignity) have been overshadowed by the overarching category of Suraksha (safety and security).

This is certainly not the first time wherein fear of civil strife may have been used to mobilise voters. Neighbouring Bihar's Jungleraj campaign may be a case in point, wherein the central plank of political mobilisation of the ruling NDA was the fear of the return of RJD. Here in the case of UP, the whole discourse of security has been centred around the alleged nuisance caused by the Muslim minority.

For instance, in Lucknow, from panwallas to rickshapullers, as an observer, one was surprised to notice the enchantment of such a campaign. An often-repeated narrative is that the police are now noting the complaints more fervently than under any previous regime. Generally speaking, the interaction of an average urban Indian with a police station is not a common affair. Yet, to entrench such a narrative shows the true capability of BJP's machinery.

A clear outcome of this, according to respondents, has been the reduction of dabangai (hooliganism) of the Muslims during their festivities. While Lucknow has remained Hindutva's electoral fortress for long, socially, this has not translated into any major communal flare. Even during the height of the Ramjanmbhoomi movement, the city remained remarkably calm due to its strong cross-cultural associations. To translate a campaign which couples safety and majoritarianism as two sides of same coin shows the success of the hegemonic capabilities of the BJP.

A connected and core electoral plank for the BJP has also been the free and safe movement of women in public spaces. It is not a hidden fact that under the BJP rule, UP has witnessed horrifying incidents of crime against women. Cases of Hathras and Unnao immediately come to one's mind. Yet, it has pitched itself as a party that has made the state a safe home for women to the extent that they can now freely roam around even during the midnight. It is not hard to find some of the symbolic initiatives taken by the government to justify its claims. Through the pink police booth and pink bus, BJP has created the spectacle of women's security at least in Lucknow. Has the symbolism really translated into the decrease in the cases of crimes against women? The answer is no.

To illustrate, according to the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB) data, there has been a 66.7% rise in cases of crime against women between 2015 (35,527) and 2019 (59,853) in UP. Crimes against women almost tripled in the last decade, from 20,169 cases in 2010 to 59,853 cases in 2019.

Besides, even on the symbolic front, the pink bus services itself has witnessed an abysmal failure, for they now ply just like other buses due to a lack of passengers. However, the BJP seems to have brought home the message that it has done enormously for public safety.

Interestingly, the arguments for safety are being put forth by both the ruling party and the opposition. While the BJP invokes a security discourse around "the fear of small numbers." The opposition uses the same discourse to mobilise minority voters in the name of safeguarding them from majoritarianism. While the former may be a relatively recent phenomenon, the latter signifies the continued stagnation of minority politics. It is here that the phenomenal failure of secular discourse in India needs to be located.

Alleged kingpin of multi-state paper leak scam testing poll waters in eastern UP

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

CRAVING of people linked to examination frauds to become lawmakers isn't just confined to Madhya Pradesh. Bedi Ram, the alleged kingpin of an interstate racket which has been reportedly behind various government recruitment exams paper leaks in many states, is now in the UP poll fray.

He is the SP-led alliance's candidate, contesting on Om Prakash Rajbhar's Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party (SBSP) ticket from Ghazipur district's Jakhanian seat, which in 2017 was won by SBSP's Triveni Ram in alliance with BJP.

Hailing from Jaunpur district, Bedi Ram has been arrested multiple times in the past in many states, including UP, MP and Chhattisgarh, in connection with paper leaks of various recruitment exams.

He was arrested by MP Police twice, after which he spent several months in jail, shattering his dreams of contesting the 2017 UP Assembly polls on BSP ticket from Jaunpur. He along with family reportedly owns large tracts of land, brick kilns and also licensed liquor shops.

According to MP Police Special Task Force (MPSTF) sources, Bedi Ram has already been charge-sheeted in the MPPSC recruitment test case of 2014 and the case is under trial.

Due to his alleged involvement in fraud cases and since he is from Jaunpur district, the local SP leadership in Ghazipur have been opposing the move to field him as SBSP candidate.

However, according to Bedi Ram, "Accusations are levelled against many people, but until proven, no one can be termed a criminal. The CBI has already given me clean chit in one of the cases" he said.

On the issue of he being termed as an "outsider", Ram says, "The Jakhanian constituency is numbered 'Constituency Number 373', while the constituency to which I belong in Jaunpur district is numbered '372', so I'm Jakhanian's neighbour and not an outsider."

According to Rajkamal Rai, a Ghazipur-based political journalist, "Ram, a former railway ticket collector, is eyeing to turn lawmaker on the back of Yadav, Rajbhar, Chouhan and his own Jatav community voters." He is pitted against two-time ex-BSP MLA Vijay Kumar and BJP's Ramraj Banwasi.

Delimitation: Gupkar meeting to discuss draft

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE Gupkar Alliance would be meeting in Srinagar on Saturday to discuss the draft proposals of the J&K Delimitation Commission.

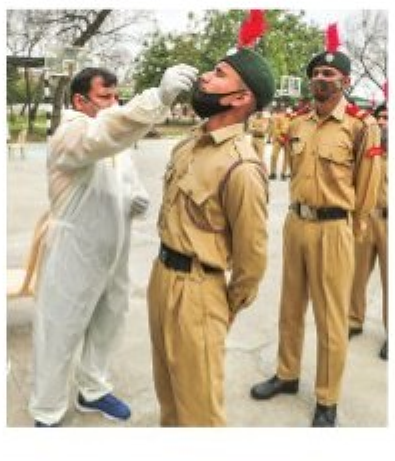
The meeting would be held at the residence of National Conference president Farooq Abdullah. It would be attended by PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti, Gupkar Alliance spokesman and CPI(M) leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami and others.

The alliance, which comprises six parties, was formed in October 2020 to fight for restoration of J&K's special status. A leader of the alliance said the leaders would discuss the delimitation panel's draft proposals.

The Delimitation Commission, which has been tasked to redraw boundaries of Assembly and LS seats in J&K, in its first report proposed six additional seats in Jammu region and only 1 in Kashmir.

Consider easing curbs, states told

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi



IN view of "substantial decline" in the number of active cases in the country, the Centre on Friday asked states and Union Territories to consider easing curbs for social, sports, entertainment, academic and religious events as well as night curfew hours.

The Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) while extending the Covid containment measures such as face covering, social distancing, among others, advised the authorities to implement a risk assessment-based approach on reopening economic activities as suggested by the Union Health Ministry on February 18.

"Accordingly, after a careful analysis of the local situation, relaxation in various activities may be considered, such as social, sports, entertainment, academic, cultural, religious, festival related gatherings; night curfew; operations of public transport; shopping complexes, cinema halls, gyms, spas, restaurants and bars; opening of schools, colleges, offices, and other commercial activities," Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla said.

The senior bureaucrat said states and UTs should continue with testing and surveillance, clinical management, vaccination and implementation of Covid appropriate behaviour for managing the pandemic.

Congress brainstorms to win Gujarat in next polls

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE Congress' crucial three-day chintan shivir began on Friday at Dwarka in which the focus of the leadership is the next year's polls in Gujarat.

As many as 500 delegates, including national and state leaders, MLAs, presidents of district units, and heads of different cells and departments, will be attending the event. Former party president Rahul Gandhi will join the brainstorming session today, Pradesh Congress Committee chief Jagdish Thakor said.

The PCC chief added that the party is eyeing to capture more than 125 seats in Gujarat. In 2017, Congress had won 77 seats out of the total 182 seats.

"The Congress follows the ideology of Gandhi, Sardar and Ambedkar. The BJP has tried to eradicate secularism not only in Gujarat but in the whole country. In Gujarat, the BJP government has been spreading lies in the name of religion for the last 27 years," Gujarat Congress in charge Raghu Sharma said.

"In this Chintan shivir, we will plan how to end the communalism of BJP," he added.

Talks on problems faced by people under BJP rule

On the first day, the delegates were shown a video highlighting the role of Congress in nation building. Discussions were held on inflation under the BJP rule, unemployment, poor health infrastructure, the plight of farmers, women's safety and issues faced by small businessmen

NCPCR OBJECTS TO LANCET CLAIM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) has issued a notice to Lancet for its report that more than 19 lakh children in India lost at least parent or during the pandemic. The NCPCR chairperson Priyank Kanoongo has asked Lancet to share the data and explain how they have arrived at the figure.

"We have written to them and issued a notice. We asked them to share the foundation of their data," Kanoongo told this daily. He said NCPCR, which comes under the Union Ministry of Women and Child Development, is collecting data on orphaned and street children on the orders of the Supreme Court and also running a website in which data collected from the states is uploaded.

According to NCPCR, 10,000 children lost their parents due to Covid and other reasons, while over 140,000 children lost a single parent. The study published in The Lancet Child & Adolescent Health, said globally 52 lakh children were orphaned. It said that 19 lakh were from India.

WALK FOR LIFE

Group of 150 medical students from Lviv on way to Poland border

ANKITA UPADHYAY @New Delhi

AS the minutes gave way to hours, a group of about 150 students from Danylo Halytsky Lviv National Medical University made the hard choice: fend for themselves as help from Ukranian and Indian officials was nowhere in sight.

Given that staying back meant uncertainty, the group booked Uber cabs towards the Poland border in groups of four and walked thereon to their destination. This, according to the students, was the last hope of getting out of the war-torn territory.

"Initially, we were walking towards wrong route but redirected (on the proper road). We are walking as there is a long traffic and a large number of Ukranians are trying to cross the borders and stuck in traffic for the last 10-12 hours," said Sonu Kumar, a student of Lviv National Medical University in western Ukraine.

Till the filing of this report, the students were walking and stated that they will reach the Poland border in an hour.

According to Sonu, the students who left were mostly from first-year and they have carried their belongings, mostly important books and clothing. "The network is really bad. We have not been able to speak with our parents as well since morning but it is important to leave from Lviv," Sonu texted on WhatsApp.

The distance between Lviv to Poland border is around 80 km and out of which the group covered some 15 km on foot, he said.

Vikram, another student, said that another batch of 150-200 students will leave on Saturday morning.

"While the Indian Embassy notified us that we can cross borders towards Hungary and Romania, we are far away from Lviv and are waiting for the embassy to confirm about the evacuation route for Poland,'' he said. "They have not confirmed if we can reach the Polish border but we are reaching there in the hope of saving ourselves. For Hungry and Romania, we will have to pay three times the fare of the cab. The distance is also three times as compared with Poland."

The fourth year student said the Indian Embassy advised the students who wanted to cross the Romania and Hungary border to carry printouts of Indian flags and paste it prominently on vehicles and buses. ''We were also asked to carry passport, cash in US dollars for any emergency expenses and other essentials."

Air evacuation to bring back Indians

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN a big relief to Indian nationals stranded in Ukraine, the government has planned evacuation flights to fly back Indians who have managed to reach Romania-Ukraine border amid Russia invasion.

One flight will leave from Delhi and other from Mumbai to Bucharest on Friday night. Sources claimed the Delhi-Bucharest plane was likely to take off at around 9 pm and the flight from Mumbai was expected to depart at 10.30 pm.

"The evacuation flights for the Indians are being arranged and the transportation cost will be completely borne by the government," sources added.

The government has asked Indian nationals to reach the Ukraine-Romania border by road from where they would be taken to Bucharest by officials so that they can be sent back home on the two flights that will be operated by Air India.

Apart from the two chartered flights to Bucharest on Friday, two flights are likely to Budapest on Saturday to bring back the stranded Indians.

The distance between Kyiv and the Romanian border is approximately 600 km and it takes anywhere between 8.5 to 11 hours to cover the distance by road. The distance from the Ukraine-Romania border to Bucharest is approximately 500 km and it takes anywhere between seven to nine hours to cover the distance by road. The distance between Kyiv and the Hungarian border check point is around 820 km and it takes 12-13 hours to cover it by road.

FIRST BATCH TO ENTER ROMANIA

Over 470 students will enter Romania through the Porubne-Siret border, the Indian embasy in Ukraine said. ''We are moving Indians located at the border to neighbouring countries for onward evacuation. Efforts are underway to relocate Indians coming from the hinterland,'' the embassy said.

Bhagalpur silk trade feels the heat of the war

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

THE Russia-Ukraine war is taking its toll on the famous Bhagalpur silk industry of Bihar. Nearly 25% of orders for export of silk-made clothes to European countries have been cancelled in the last couple of days.

By a rough estimate, orders worth ₹20 crore have been cancelled in this short period and more is expected in the days to come. Silk-made clothes are in great demand in Ukraine and other European countries, including Russia.

Eastern Bihar Industries Association (EBIA) general secretary Alok Agrawal said those involved in the silk manufacturing trade are apprehensive of more financial losses, if the war continues. "It's a double whammy for the silk traders of Bhagalpur. The business had already suffered huge losses due to the pandemic and now the Russian invasion of Ukraine."

Silk-made scarves or stoles are a favourite of the women of Europe. Bhagalpuri chadar, lungi, silk clothes, silk yarn and scarves are in great demand abroad. Besides, clothes made of cotton and linen are also exported from Bhagalpur.

Silk traders revealed that products worth over ₹30-35 crore are exported to Ukraine per annum. "The trade was about to get back on track after the pandemic. But it seems that times are not good for the silk industry of Bhagalpur," said trader Jia-ul-Haq. Nearly 25% of orders placed for the supply of silk products from European countries have been cancelled. "We are worried over the losses incurred in the last few days due to the Russia-Ukraine war," he added.

EBIA's ex-president Pradip Jhunjhunwala said silk products worth ₹100 crore are exported to Russia and Ukraine per annum.

A functionary of the Bhagalpur Weavers' Welfare Association, Alim Ansari said an estimated 12,500 families rely on hand looms for a livelihood. For power looms, this figure is nearly 13,000. He said if the situation in Europe worsens due to the ongoing war, weavers of Bhagalpur would be pushed to the brink of starvation.

Worry over diamond supply in Surat

AHMEDABAD: It is uncertain times for diamond merchants of Gujarat. The world's largest rough diamond mining company Alrosa is based in Russia.

As a result, the world's biggest diamond cutting and polishing centre in and around Surat has halted operations, in anticipation of widespread disruptions in international supply. They are also worried that because of the war, the price of rough diamond will see a steep increase.

Around 8-10 important diamond enterprises controlled by Gujarati diamantaires are functioning in Russia. Because of the war, supply to India has become uncertain.

Former GJEPC (Gems and Jewellery Export Promotion Council) chairman and diamantaire Dinesh Nawadia said, "Six per cent of rough diamonds come from Russia. A large part of this is from Alrosa. If a war or war-like situation continues for a long time, supply of rough goods will stop and the price of polished diamonds will likely go up. Diamond prices went by almost 50 per since last September. So buyers are already sceptical."

Since June 21, there has been a significant mismatch in diamond pricing, with rough diamond prices increasing by 55 to 60 per cent and polished diamond prices increasing only by 15 to 30 per cent.

"The Russia-Ukraine war has suddenly changed a few things in this sector," stated Naimesh Pachhigar, owner of a diamond company. "Because of the interruption in logistics, the price of gold and diamonds will go up even further."

Effects are already being felt. "If the war continues, it will have a big impact on the diamond sector. Manufacturing activity in the industry has come to a halt over the last two days. Because of rising rough diamond costs, there is a perceived shortage of polished diamonds," he added.

Industry sources said the small diamantaires are at the receiving end.

"Due to higher gold and diamond prices, there is an order-based demand in the industry. There is shortage of polished diamonds in the market and the Russia-Ukraine war is going to make the situation more critical for the industry," said another diamantaire.

SC asks Sidhu to respond to application within two weeks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday granted two weeks time to Congress leader Navjot Singh Sidhu to file response on an application seeking review of his sentence in a 32-year old road case.

"You file your response; we will consider all the aspects. Whether the application needs to be entertained is the first question which will have to be examined," the court told P Chidambaram, who appeared for Sidhu.

In May 2018, the apex court had held Sidhu guilty of the offence of 'voluntarily causing hurt' to a 65-year-old man and spared him a jail term. It had imposed a fine of ₹1,000.

Later in September 2018, the apex court agreed to examine a review petition filed by the family members of the deceased and issued notice.

Protest at North Block over delay in promotion

New Delhi: Seeking resumption of the long-stalled promotions, officials of the Central Secretariat Service assembled outside the office of personnel minister Jitendra Singh on Friday. Sources said the protesters insisted on meeting Singh, who was not in his office. But the staff assured them that their issues would be addressed by March 10. The sources said the issue has been pending for years now and got further delayed due to litigation. Sources in Jitendra Singh's office said the minister is personally looking into the issue.

Tiger death tally alarming, 27 in first two months

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

INDIA has recorded a total 27 tiger deaths this year, reveals data collated by the Wildlife Protection Society of India (WPSI). This is a blow for India's tiger conservation programme, which was drawing applause for being successful over the last few years.

Titu Joseph, chief executive officer of WPSI told this daily, "Till February 23, a total of 27 tiger deaths have been recorded. This means one death every second day, which is serious. Of these, seven are related to poaching. A more robust mechanism is needed."

Worried by the numbers, wildlife experts and conservationists are urging the government to take note. AG Ansari, who has been working for over two decades in Ramnagar, said, "The Centre as well as the states need to pay more attention. Tiger is not just the national animal but an important part of the ecosystem."

Uttarakhand houses Corbett Tiger Reserve, which has the highest tiger density among the 50-odd reserves in India. No tiger death took place in Uttarakhand this year. Uttarakhand forest officials declined to comment on the matter.

Of the 27 tiger deaths, according to the WPSI, nine were in Madhya Pradesh, followed by six in Maharashtra, five in Karnataka, two in Assam, two in Kerala and one each in Rajasthan, Bihar and Andhra Pradesh. It says 19 deaths took place due to fighting among the big cats while seven died due to poaching and related incidents.

According to the National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA), 127 tigers died in 2021, 106 in 2020, 96 in 2019, 101 in 2018, 117 in 2017, 121 in 2016, 82 in 2015, 78 in 2014, 68 in 2013 and 88 in 2012. It also says that the number of tiger deaths this year is 23 so far.

In 2020, on the International Tiger Day, a report titled 'Status of Tigers Co-predators and Prey in India', released by the Centre revealed that the reserves of Uttarakhand have the highest tiger density in India. Corbett has 14 tigers per 100 sq km, which is highest in India.

QR code based feedback system for public toilets

The Chandigarh Municipal Corporation has completed the process of setting up a QR code-based feedback system in over 300 public conveniences in the city. Thus, now one can give the feedback online directly to the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs, if a public toilet not in a good condition. With one's smart phone one just needs to scan the code. Once the code is scanned, they will be directed to the website of the ministry. There will be seven questions heir smart phones and scan the code. Once the code is scanned, they will be directed to the website of the ministry. They can choose yes or no on seven questions related to cleaning of toilets, water availability, lighting, smell and ventilation. Besides, Chandigarh Smart City Limited is currently refurbishing 38 public toilets.

Hospital finally gets RT-PCR lab

Finally, the Government Multi-Specialty Hospital (GMSH) in Sector 16 is ready with a full-fledged RT-PCR laboratory. The laboratory will give reports of Covid samples of city residents at a capacity of 200 tests per day. Earlier, the GMSH was dependent on either the GMCH in Sector 32 or the PGI for reports of Covid samples collected by its teams. The GMSH also has a TrueNat machine that gives results in three to four hours, but is only meant for testing of emergency cases and not mass-scale testing. With this, the city now has four government facilities for RT-PCR testing.

Panchkula connected by '181' distress helpline

The city administration has extended the '181' distress helpline for women in Panchkula. Women in need of help can seek help on this number and will be directly connected to a one-stop centre (OSC)f or any issue they may be facing. The authorities in Panchkula will provide services like legal and medical advice, as well as food facilities. The scheme is aimed at dispersing emergency and non-emergency access of services including legal, medical, counselling support, immediately. Besides, women facing physical, sexual, psychological and financial abuse can call for support and redressal. Domestic violence complaints are also heard by the helpline.

AS TROOPS CLOSE IN, DEATH SURROUNDS UKRAINIANS

Civilians hold on to their lives, flee the country as casualties rise; sounds of explosions, air raid sirens take over Kyiv, as residents stand uneasily in doorways

KYIV

YURII ZHYHANOV woke before dawn to his mother's screaming and found himself covered in dust. On the second day of Russia's invasion, shelling on the outskirts of Ukraine's capital, Kyiv, struck their residential building.

Many civilians, horrified to find their lives at risk, started to flee during the attack's first hours. Amid the smoke and the screeching of car alarms on Friday, Zhyhanov and his family packed and joined them. "What are you doing? What is this?" he said, addressing Russia and gesturing to the damaged building behind him. "If you want to attack military personnel, attack military personnel. This is all I can say."

His weariness and shock reflected that of his country as people climbed out of bomb shelters, basements and subways to face another day of upheaval. Those who didn't wake to explosions were roused by air raid sirens. Then came the news that Russian forces had advanced to the capital's outskirts. Russia has said it is not targeting cities, but the fighting seemed far too close. The body of a dead soldier lay near a Kyiv underpass. Elsewhere, fragments of a downed aircraft smoked in a residential area. Black plastic was draped over body parts found amid the brick homes.

Armoured personnel carriers drove down the city's streets. Soldiers on empty bridges established defensive positions. Residents stood uneasily in doorways of apartment buildings, watching.

Outside a monastery, a woman lifted her hands toward a mural of saints and appeared to pray. In the port city of Mariupol, a young girl named Vlada wished for the assault to stop. "I don't want to die," she said. "I want all of this to end as soon as possible." Uncertainty compounded the fear. On a street in the Obolon district, Associated Press journalists saw a military truck disabled, its tires deflated. The truck had no apparent insignia, and it was not clear if it was a vehicle that Ukraine's general staff claimed had been stolen by Russian forces aiming to disguise themselves as local ones. Ukrainians picked through the damage left by shelling. And some mourned.

In the city of Horlivka, in the territory held by pro-Russian rebels, a body covered with a blanket lay outside a house that had been hit. A man standing nearby spoke on the phone. "Yes, Mom's gone, that's all," he said. "That's it, Mom's gone."

The UN human rights office said it was receiving increasing reports of civilian casualties, with at least 25 deaths verified, mostly from shelling and airstrikes. "The figures, we fear, could be much higher," an agency spokesperson said. AP

Zelensky says West in 'no hurry' to offer help

KYIV

UKRAINIAN President Volodymyr Zelensky on Friday called on Europeans with "combat experience" to take up arms and defend Ukraine against invading Russian forces, adding the West was too slow to help his country.

His dramatic call for help came as Russian forces were approaching the Ukrainian capital, with some units reportedly reaching the city's northern suburbs.

"If you have combat experience in Europe and do not want to look at the indecision of politicians, you can come to our country and join us in defending Europe, where it is very necessary now," Zelensky, who appeared tired, said in a video.

Speaking on the second day of the attack launched by Russian President Vladimir Putin, Zelensky also asked Europeans to "demand from your governments that Ukraine receive more financial, more military aid."

The 44-year-old leader also said the West was in no hurry to help Ukraine against the Russian invasion.

"How are you going to defend yourself when you are so slowly helping us in Ukraine?," he said. "State institutions in Europe are not in a hurry with really strong decisions." AFP

UNITED STATES

President Joe Biden unveiled harsh new measures against Russia, saying: "Putin chose this war." The new sanctions include export blocks on technology, a centerpiece of Biden's approach that he said would severely limit Russia's ability to advance its military and aerospace sector. This includes Russia-wide restrictions on semiconductors, telecommunication, encryption security, lasers, sensors, navigation, avionics and maritime technologies. The US also applied sanctions on Russian banks. It said it would cut off 13 state-owned companies from raising money in the US.

UNITED KINGDOM

The United Kingdom is set to sanction 100 individuals and entities as part of further sanctions against Russia, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson announced. He said the goal was "to exclude Russian banks from the UK financial system." An asset freeze will be imposed on Russian state bank VTB, he added, following the sanctioning of five Russian banks. Russian state and private companies will also be prevented from fundraising in the UK. Also, 100 individuals and entities will have their assets frozen, he said.

‘Fuel prices should have been higher by ₹7-14’

The SBI report highlights the intensifying geopolitical tensions in Europe will cost India at least ₹1 L cr this fiscal

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

GIVEN the increase in the price of crude oil in the international market, the diesel and petrol prices should have been higher by ₹7-14, suggests a report by the State Bank of India’s (SBI) economic wing. The report also highlighted that the intensifying geopolitical tensions in Europe is going to cost India at least ₹1 lakh crore this fiscal year.

“Based on the existing VAT structure and taking Brent crude price of $95 per barrel to $110 per barrel, diesel and petrol prices should have been higher by ₹7-14,” reads the report.

As the Russian president Vladimir Putin started military operations in Ukraine on Thursday, the Brent crude oil prices hit $105 per barrel for the first time since 2014. However, it fell to $101 per barrel on Friday but it continues to pose a threat to India’s inflation and current account deficit. Experts believe that it will take around 18 months for the crude prices to come down as much as 67% from the highest level. The average price of Indian basket of crude has risen by 33.5% from $63.4 per barrel in April 2021 to $84.67 per barrel in January 2022.

“Every $10 per barrel increase in Brent crude price will lead to an increase in inflation by 20- 25 bps. If crude oil price rises to an average of $100 per barrel(or $90 per barrel) from the current average of $74 per barrel, inflation is likely to increase by 52-65 bps (32-40 bps),” reads the report by SBI. “And if we assume that the reduced excise duty continues in the next fiscal and assuming petrol and diesel consumption grow around 8-10% in FY23, then the revenue loss of the Government would be around ₹95,000 crore to ₹1 lakh crore for FY23,” said the report.

Another study done by ICRA suggests that if the government reinstates the excise duty on fuel to the pre-pandemic rates, the total revenue loss will be ₹0.9 trillion in this fiscal.

“In our assessment, a rollback in excise duties to pre-pandemic levels can prevent any major jump in pump prices, thereby softening the impact on the CPI inflation trajectory, albeit at a fiscal cost of ₹ 0.9 trillion to the GoI,” said ICRA in its report.

NEW ACQUISITION

Airtel to buy 5% of Vodafone’s equity in Indus Towers

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

TELECOM operator Bharti Airtel on Friday informed that it has entered into an agreement with Vodafone to buy 4.7% equity interest in Indus Towers. The principal condition of the deal is that the amount paid shall be inducted by Vodafone as fresh equity in Vodafone Idea Limited (VIL) and simultaneously remitted to Indus Towers to clear VIL’s outstanding dues.

“The acquisition purchase would be at an attractive price representing a significant discount typically available for such large block transactions. In addition, Airtel is also protected with a capped price which is lower than the price for the block of Indus shares sold by Vodafone on February 24, 2022. This shall be value accretive to Airtel and protect its existing significant shareholding in Indus Towers,” said Airtel in a statement.

The cash-strapped Vodafone Idea (VIL) has been unable to pay dues of Indus Towers, and both VIL and promoter Vodafone have proposed a payment plan to clear the outstanding amount by July 15. In the meantime, as per reports, VIL has committed to pay certain minimum amount each month to Indus Towers.

“We believe this transaction allows Airtel to secure continued strong provision of services from Indus Towers, protects and enhances Airtel’s value in Indus Towers, enables it to receive rich dividends and also paves the way for subsequent financial consolidation of Indus Towers in Airtel,” said Airtel.

Indus Towers is a provider of passive telecom infrastructure and it deploys, owns and manages telecom towers and communication structures for various mobile operators. Currently, Vodafone holds about 28% in Indus Towers while Bharti Airtel holds around 42%. The company’s portfolio of over 1,84,748 telecom towers makes it one of the largest tower infrastructure providers in the country. Recently, Vodafone Idea Ltd opted to pay interest of around ₹16,000 crore through preferential shares, which makes the government 35.8% stakeholder in the company.

JAPAN

CENTRAL BANK LOWERS LIMITS ON CP, CORPORATE BOND

The Bank of Japan (BOJ) said on Friday it had decided to reduce the maximum amounts of commercial paper (CP) and corporate bonds it can buy in a single issuer’s outright purchase for the April-September period. The BOJ set a single issuer’s outright CP purchases at 100 billion yen ($868 million), and a single issuer’s outright corporate bonds purchases at 250 billion yen, the central bank said in a statement. The disclosure follows an announcement by the BOJ in December that it will end in March increased purchases of CP and corporate bonds that it rolled out in 2020 in response to the coronavirus pandemic. Meanwhile, the BOJ would scrutinise factors behind the country’s low inflation and the divergence of price trends from other parts of the world in a series of workshops that kicks off next month. The move underscores the challenge the BOJ faces in dealing with stubbornly low inflation that is forcing it to maintain massive stimulus, even as other major central banks eye raising interest rates to cope with rising inflation.

TSMC TO COMPLY WITH NEW EXPORT CONTROL RULES

Chipmaker TSMC is fully committed to complying with new export control rules, the company said on Friday, after Taiwan’s government said it would join international sanctions on Russia for invading Ukraine. “TSMC complies with all applicable laws and regulations and is fully committed to complying with the new export control rules announced,” it said in a statement. “The company also has a rigorous export control system in place, including a robust assessment and review process to ensure export control restrictions are followed.” The US and Taiwanese chip industries are taking stock of the latest raft of international sanctions against Russia, imposed on 24 February, as strategic and cutting-edge technologies get pulled into the fray. Separately, the US too pledged to “choke off” Russia’s imports of sensitive technological products, saying it will impose “Russia-wide restrictions on sensitive US technologies produced in foreign countries using US-origin software, technology or equipment. This includes Russia-wide restrictions on semiconductors, telecommunication, encryption security, lasers, sensors, navigation, avionics and maritime technologies.”

ASIAN STOCKS

ASIAN STOCKS STAGE TENTATIVE REBOUND

European stocks rose on Friday following Wall Street’s dramatic late rally, as investors welcomed coordinated Western sanctions against Russia that targeted its banks but left its energy sector largely untouched. Oil prices initially fell back sharply but were back above $100 a barrel in early European trading. The jump in stocks was modest, however, and markets remained down significantly from levels at the start of the week after investors were left stunned by Russian President Vladimir Putin’s decision to invade Ukraine. On Friday, missiles pounded the Ukrainian capital as Russian forces pressed their advance. During morning trade, the Euro STOXX was 0.72% higher while the FTSE 100 gained 1.1%. Germany’s DAX nudged 0.05% higher. Asian shares closed up higher. But on Wall Street - where stocks staged a massive rebound after U.S. President Joe Biden unveiled sanctions on Thursday - futures pointed to a lower open in the United States. In Asia, MSCI’s broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan closed up 0.78%, Shanghai’s composite index rallied 0.63% and Japan’s Nikkei gained 1.95%. Russian stocks soared 14% - but that followed one of the three biggest ever single-day stock market crashes in history.

India’s GDP growth may be below 9% in the current financial year

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

AS the National Statistical Organisation (NSO) is going to announce the second advance estimate of the 2021-22 GDP growth on Monday, the general consensus is that GDP in the current financial year might grow at below 9%.

While the first advance estimate of the NSO had put the GDP growth at 9.2%, most economists believe that GDP growth could instead be around 8.5%. The main reason for the sharp downward revision could be the upward revision of 2020-21 GDP growth rate from -7.3% to -6.6%.

However, a likely slowdown in January is also believed to be the reason for the sharp downward revision of the growth estimates.

Brickwork Ratings on Friday said that it has revised its growth estimate from 8.5-9% to 8.3%, while India Ratings has recently said the growth numbers could be revised to 8.6%.

“The latest growth indicators suggest a loss of economic momentum in recent months. The rapid spread of Covid in January 2022 led to renewed restrictions on economic activities, dampening the revival process, particularly in contact-intensive sectors,” reasons Brickwork Ratings

It also believes that production constraints caused by a semiconductor shortage in electronic and automobile industries, along with supply shortages in coal and power outages are causing a slowdown in the manufacturing sector.

India Ratings, on the other hand, holds the revision of 2020-21 GDP growth numbers responsible for downward revision of 2021-22 numbers.“The major reason is the upward revision of 2020-21 GDP to ₹135.6 trillion in the first revised estimate (1st RE) of national income for FY21, released on 31 January 2022. As a result, the GDP growth of FY21 has now improved to negative 6.6% from the provisional estimate (PE) of negative 7.3% released on 31 May 2021,” it says.

Ministry asks TRAI to expedite 5G spectrum recommendations

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE Department of Telecommunication (DoT) approached the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) requesting it to expedite spectrum recommendations after the Prime Minister Office urged it to work towards the initial launch of 5G by August 15, 2022.

“In reference to decisions/action points emanating from deliberations of a monitoring group, PMO has requested DoT to work towards the initial launch of 5G by 15th August 2022 and also explore the possibility of obtaining requisite recommendations from TRAI before March-2022. In view of the above, TRAI is requested to expedite the matter and provide the recommendations at the earliest,” said DoT in a letter.

The finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman during her budget speech announced the launch of 5G services in the country by the end of this year. The auction of 5G spectrum is to take place in this fiscal.

“TRAI is requested to examine the need to review channel plan in 800 MHz band and number of spectrum blocks that can be made available for telecom services in 800 MHz band while providing their recommendations in response to DoT’s reference dated 13.09.2021 regarding upcoming spectrum auction,” reads the letter.

Recently, TRAI had conducted an open house discussion on 5G spectrum, in which it sought views from stakeholders on auction. In reply, the telecom operators have made an aggressive pitch for lowering spectrum pricing.

CCI can’t keep own order in abeyance: Amazon

New Delhi: Amazon on Friday questioned Competition Commission’s decision to keep in abeyance the more than two-year-old approval for the e-commerce major’s deal with Future Coupons Pvt Ltd (FCPL), arguing that the regulator does not have the power to keep its own order in abeyance. Amazon made the submission before the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT), which is hearing its plea against the decision of CCI. In December last year, the watchdog said the approval for the Amazon-Future Coupons deal “shall remain in abeyance”, citing the e-commerce player had suppressed information.

Markets bounce back amid Ukraine war

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

STOCK indices bounced off from Thursday’s lows, rising 2.5% with the market digesting the Russian invasion of neighbouring Ukraine. The Nifty gained 410 points to close at 16758.40 while the Sensex jumped 1329 points to 55858.42.

Investors gained ₹7.63 lakh crore in wealth after seeing erosion of ₹13.28 lakh crore Thursday.

However, despite the rise, analysts advise caution, given the possibility of the Ukraine crisis getting protracted or worsening. At best, they advise waiting at the sidelines until the volatility cools off and limited stock picking among bluechips.

“From a positional trading point of view, I’d stay away until the volatility cools off,” said Siddarth Bhamre, a director at InCred Equities. “Just as trend is a trader’s friend, volatility is an investor’s friend as he gets to pick good stocks at reasonable valuations.”

Bhamre’s picks include SBI, Maruti, L&T and Infosys.

Fear gauge India Vix fell 16.4% to 26.74 from 18 month highs a day earlier, which dragged down the Nifty by 815 points, the most in 23 months as Russia declared war on Ukraine.

However, a Vix reading above 20 still indicates elevated uncertainty. Another worrying factor for market watchers is the persistent FII selling.

On Friday, as the market bounced, FIIs sold a provisional ₹4,471 crore of shares even as DIIs, including mutual funds, purchased a provisional ₹4,318 crore of shares.

CREDIT ISSUES

FM meets various sectors representatives

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia on Friday held a meeting with the representatives of Covid-19 hit aviation, tourism and hospitality sectors to discuss banking and credit-related issues.

The meeting was attended by senior officials of the Finance Ministry along with the heads of various public sector banks and the Indian Banks’ Association (IBA).

The sector representatives requested the government to bring aviation turbine fuel (ATF), currently at record high, under the purview of the Goods and Services Tax (GST). The representatives also mentioned their long term demand to give infrastructure status to the aviation and hospitality sectors as it will help them avail cheaper finance.

The finance minister said she would look at bringing ATF under the gambit of GST and assured the industry representatives of taking concrete steps to bring the sectors back on the growth track.

Owing to the on-going conflict between Russia and Ukraine, international oil prices have breached the $100 per barrel mark, which also is highest since 2014. This is a very unwelcoming development for airline operators, who already are experiencing low traffic due to covid-19, as ATF accounts for 35-40% of their total expenses.

In the Budget 2022-23, the FM had proposed to open an additional ₹50,000 crore window under the Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (ECLGS) to support the hospitality and related services sector.

Sunflower oil to be costlier amid Ukraine crisis

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE ongoing conflict between Russia and Ukraine is soon going to impact the price of cooking oil in India as it imports 93% of sunflower seeds oil from these two countries.

As per the Commerce Ministry data, India consumes around 2.5 million tonnes (mt) of sunflower oil annually but it only produces 50,000 tonnes of sunflower oil, and imports the rest. The sunflower oil accounts for 14% of all edible oil imports. It is the fourth most consumed edible oil, after palm (8-8.5 mt), soyabean (4.5 mt) and mustard/rapeseed (3 mt). The price of sunflower oil rose from ₹98 a litre in February 2019 to ₹161 February 2022.

India’s sunflower oil imports is 2.5 mt in 2019-20 (April-March) and 2.2 mt in 2020-21, valued at $1.89 billion and $1.96 billion, respectively. From Ukraine it imports 1.93 mt (worth $1.47 billion) in 2019-20 and 1.74 mt ($1.6 billion) in 2020-21, with Russia it imports around 0.38 mt ($287 million) and 0.28 mt ($235.89 mt). Some quantities were also imported from Argentina: 0.17 mt in 2019-20 and 0.14 mt in 2020-21.

Like crude oil, the global sunflower oil prices have been rising even before the declaration of war by Russia.

Netcore Cloud eyes global expansion

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

SAAS platform Netcore Cloud on Friday said it will be expanding in regions including the Middle East, Australia, New Zealand and the African continent.

The company, which helps B2C brands create AI-powered new-age digital experiences, also plans to increase its revenues from international markets across North America, South America and Europe to 30-40% by 2025. This target will happen through partnerships and acquisitions.

It also plans to double Annual Recurring Revenue (ARR) to $150 million by 2024.

Abithab Bhaskar, International CEO, Netcore Cloud said, “The growing need for technology companies coupled with relaxed regulations and talent pool has presented a favourable environment for Indian technology companies to penetrate international markets seamlessly.”

Netcore Cloud sees a huge potential in the global markets and aims to double growth through organic and inorganic partnerships and acquisitions in the next two years, he added. Also, the company will be extending credits of $10,000 for start-ups in these countries.

Led by Rajesh Jain, the Mumbai-headquartered company has made a huge footprint in South-East Asia as well. Over 75% of India’s and 50% of Asia’s email traffic are processed through its platform, the company said. With a workforce of over 800, the company serves over 5,000 customers including BYJU’S, Zimave, Crocs.

WazirX launches BUIDL to help build crypto exchanges

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

TO assist entrepreneurs to build their own crypto exchanges, WazirX on Friday launched BUIDL, which is the crypto version of the term ‘build’

WazirX will provide tools to entrepreneurs by releasing its APIs (application programming interface), and will also give them access to over 300 trading pairs. The crypto exchange will also help entrepreneurs in raising funding by connecting them with venture capitalists. WazirX has already partnered with a few venture capital funds to help users by providing grants and funding.

This launch comes at a time when the government has announced 30% tax and TDS on crypto assets. Though crypto exchanges say this gives some sort of legitimacy status to crypto, the finance ministry has denied this.

Siddharth Menon, co-founder and COO at WazirX, said, “It takes a lot of effort to create an exchange. We started the programme with the goal of paving the way for the future generation of crypto entrepreneurs who wish to start their own exchange using WazirX’s expertise.”

Maruti launches all new WagonR

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TWO days after launching the new Baleno, Maruti Suzuki India (MSIL) on Friday launched the facelift of one of its best-selling cars -WagonR- as it aims to firm its grip in the high-volume hatchback segment. The new WagonR is priced between ₹5.39 and ₹7.10 lakh.

Since its launch in 1999, WagonR has been one of the top selling cars for MSIL. In January 2022, it topped the sales chart with 20,334 units. Now with two back to back facelifts with increased fuel efficiency and interior changes, MSIL would be hoping to increase its share in the hatchback segment.

“WagonR has the highest repeat purchase percentage in the Maruti Suzuki portfolio. Over 1 in 4 WagonR customers replace it with a new WagonR. Over the years, Wagon R has become the choice of over 2.7 million families,” said Shashank Srivastava, Senior Executive Director (Marketing & Sales), MSIL.

The main selling point would be its engine and mileage. It is powered by Advanced K-series Dual Jet, Dual VVT Engines with Idle Start Stop Technology. Available in both petrol and S-CNG fuel options, 1.0L engine delivers a fuel efficiency of 25.19 km/l in petrol (VXI AGS), higher by approximately 16% from outgoing model and 34.05 km/kg in S-CNG, higher by approximately 5% from outgoing S-CNG model. The 1.2L Advance K-Series Dual Jet, Dual VVT engine with ISS delivers 24.43 km/l (ZXI AGS /ZXI+ AGS), higher by approximately 19% from the outgoing model.

India on course to wrap up series in Dharamsala

A reinvigorated India will look to pocket their second series win in as many weeks & build on the gains made from a drastic change in their batting approach in the 2nd T20I against Sri Lanka on Saturday. India were forced to look in the mirror after their early exit from the T20 World Cup last year but four months later, they look a transformed unit with a bunch of youngsters being tried out in various positions & roles.

Asian and CWG gold winnable, says Seema

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

AT 37, she would need more determination and motivation to hurl the discus further everyday or continue with her daily ritual of training. Pain and niggles have become part of her life, something she felt would stay with her forever. "I have to manage it," she said. After a career spanning more than two decades, Seema Antil considers it fortuitous to continue in a demanding sport like discus. The journey did take a toll on her body.

Tokyo Olympics had been one forgetful experience and something she would not like to reminisce about. "It took some time to shake off the setback and get back to training in September (at JN Stadium)," she said. Not a regular in the domestic circuit since the Asian Games in 2018, Seema will compete in India until April at least. Her first competition would be at the National Throws competition in Patiala on Sunday.

A day before leaving for Patiala, Seema seemed confident about the season and said she is looking forward to her third Asian Games and fifth Commonwealth Games. "I have to perform well and win medals at both the Games." "If everything goes off well, I would target gold." She has won three silver and one bronze at CWG, while gold at 2014 Asian Games and bronze in 2018.

Seema, who had been training in Russia after the 2018 Asian Games, doesn't have a coach. She is training with physio Darshan Shetty by her side. "He helps with my training," she said. "I get my training schedule from my Russian coach. Even the US coach with whom I had trained for quite sometime earlier sends programmes."

BIGGEST EVER IPL SEASON YET

15th edition to run for 65 days, 10 teams split into 2 groups & to have a total of 74 ties

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE upcoming edition of the Indian Premier League (IPL) to be played in Mumbai and Pune will begin on March 26 and finish on May 29, the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) announced on Friday. Three stadiums in Mumbai and one in Pune will be used for the 74 matches with the venue for play-offs to be decided later. In all, the 15th edition of the IPL will run for 65 days, making it the longest ever in the tournament history even as the BCCI is planning to expand it further from next season.

The whole tournament like the two previous editions will be played in a bio-secure environment with the BCCI yet to decide whether it will be played behind closed doors or not. The BCCI finalised the venues during its IPL Governing Council meeting after its team conducted a recce last week.

While the Reliance Stadium in Navi Mumbai was also spoken off as a venue to host the league matches, the BCCI decided to stick with only Wankhede stadium, Cricket Club of India (CCI) and DY Patil stadium. Each team will play four matches at Wankhede and DY Patil, and three each at CCI and Pune. With the number of teams increasing to 10, the BCCI has also gone back to the group format. Teams have been divided into two groups based on the number of titles they have won. Those who are yet to win a title have been separated on the basis of the number of finals appearances. In the league stages, teams in the same group will face each other twice and will play 14 matches.

FMSCI Nat'l Racing returns for final hurrah

ASHIM SUNAM @Coimbatore

WHEN the third wave of Covid-19 gradually struck India in December and January, sporting competitions were affected with some of them either getting postponed or cancelled. The fourth and final round of the JK Tyre-FMSCI National Racing Championship met the same fate and the organisers postponed it to February. Come this weekend, one can expect a thrilling finish with the grand finale scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at Kari Motor Speedway in Coimbatore.

Sanjay Sharma, Head of JK Tyre Motorsport, said that they were well prepared and experienced to handle the situation last month. "Luckily, from experience of postponements in 2020 and 2021, we were a little bit well prepared this time around," he told this daily. "Also, the thing is that sports cannot be compromised. There are a set of kids and racers, who have gone through a lot of training and competed in the first three rounds and around 14 to 18 races. You cannot deny them that laurel, so here we are for the final round."

Over the next two days, racers will be involved in three categories, including Indian make Novice Cup and Royal Enfield Continental GT Cup and LGB Formula 4.

Prasidh's day out puts Karnataka in command

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

TWO halves of Prasidh Krishna's spell made all the difference for Karnataka. If the first half of it made them look nervous, by the end of the second half they were in total control of their second round Ranji Trophy match against Jammu and Kashmir as Karnataka were 337 runs ahead at the end of Day 2 on Friday.

The conditions at the IIT-Chemplast ground in Chennai, where the summer is beginning to set in, was far from being pleasant. The heat one usually associates with the city was beginning to be felt. So, under a harsh sun with Karnataka having only 302 runs on board in the first innings, they needed their bowlers to rescue them. The pitch was full of runs and Jammu & Kashmir openers Qamran Iqbal and Jatin Wadhwan showed no real signs of discomfort in the middle as Karnataka's new ball bowlers Prasidh and Ronit More struggled to find rhythm.

The sun was only getting harsher by the minute as boundaries flew off the bat. Iqbal, especially, stood out with his cover drives and a casual flick, which sent the ball soaring over fine-leg. That all of it was against Prasidh showed his touch of class as Jammu and Kashmir raced to 50 inside 10 overs. To make things worse for Karnataka, More walked off after sending the first ball of his fifth over with a back spasm.

Other attacks would have thrown in the towel. Especially fast bowlers. But in Prasidh, Karnataka had a trump card.

In the first six overs, Prasidh struggled to find that rhythm as his figures read 6-0-26-0. "I was just trying to hit the right lengths and I knew once I found it, it was all about consistency. It took me a few overs," Prasidh said about his first half of his spell. By his fifth over, you could see something beginning to change. After a couple of deliveries nearly found Wadhwan's edge in his sixth over, the first ball of his seventh kissed the outside edge to give Karnataka their first break-through.

RANJI TROPHY

Spinners keep TN in control

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

FRIDAY was of those rare days in office that Tamil Nadu will cherish as things went per their script to the T. First, they managed to declared at an imposing total 470 for nine in 118 overs,then their bowlers reduced Chhattisgarh to 105 for five at stumps, putting the Harpreet Singh-led side in a spot of bother on the second day of the Ranji Trophy tie in Guwahati.

B Aparajith (166) and Shahrukh Khan (69) continued from where they left on Thursday to stitch a partnership worth 125 runs for the fifth wicket, and helped Tamil Nadu get to a position of strength. Although the lower order failed to wag, Tamil Nadu managed to post an imposing total thanks to Aparajith's perseverance and single minded dedication.

"We are pleased with the way Tamil Nadu performed on Friday. We wanted to post a challenging total and this was possible thanks to the efforts of Aparajith and Shahrukh," said head coach M Venkatarama.

EIGHT
Surviving species of honey bees recognised currently, though there are about 43 subspecies

460 PERCENT Increase in imports of pesticide in Chile over the last two decades

BEES DYING OUT
Due to a variety of factors—pesticides, drought, habitat destruction, nutrition deficit, air pollution, global warming and more

EXFILE • NATURE

Bee-ing mindful of the buzzy pollinators

A drought has gripped Chile for 13 years and the flowers that feed the honey bees in the central town of Colina have grown increasingly scarce. Beekeepers have lost as much as a third of their total bee population and are left with a choice: try to keep the rest alive with an artificial nectar or move them to a place where flowers and pollen are more abundant. Let's take a look at honey bees and the problems in Chile

WHAT WOULD WE LOSE WITHOUT THEM?
Coffee, avocados, lemons, limes and oranges, among others. This would greatly affect the economies of many nations

60 PER CENT
REDUCTION
Of honey bee hives in North America from 6 million in 1947 to 2.4 million in 2008

MORE THAN $18 BILLION
Worth of honey bees to US economy per year just because of the number of plants that require it for pollination

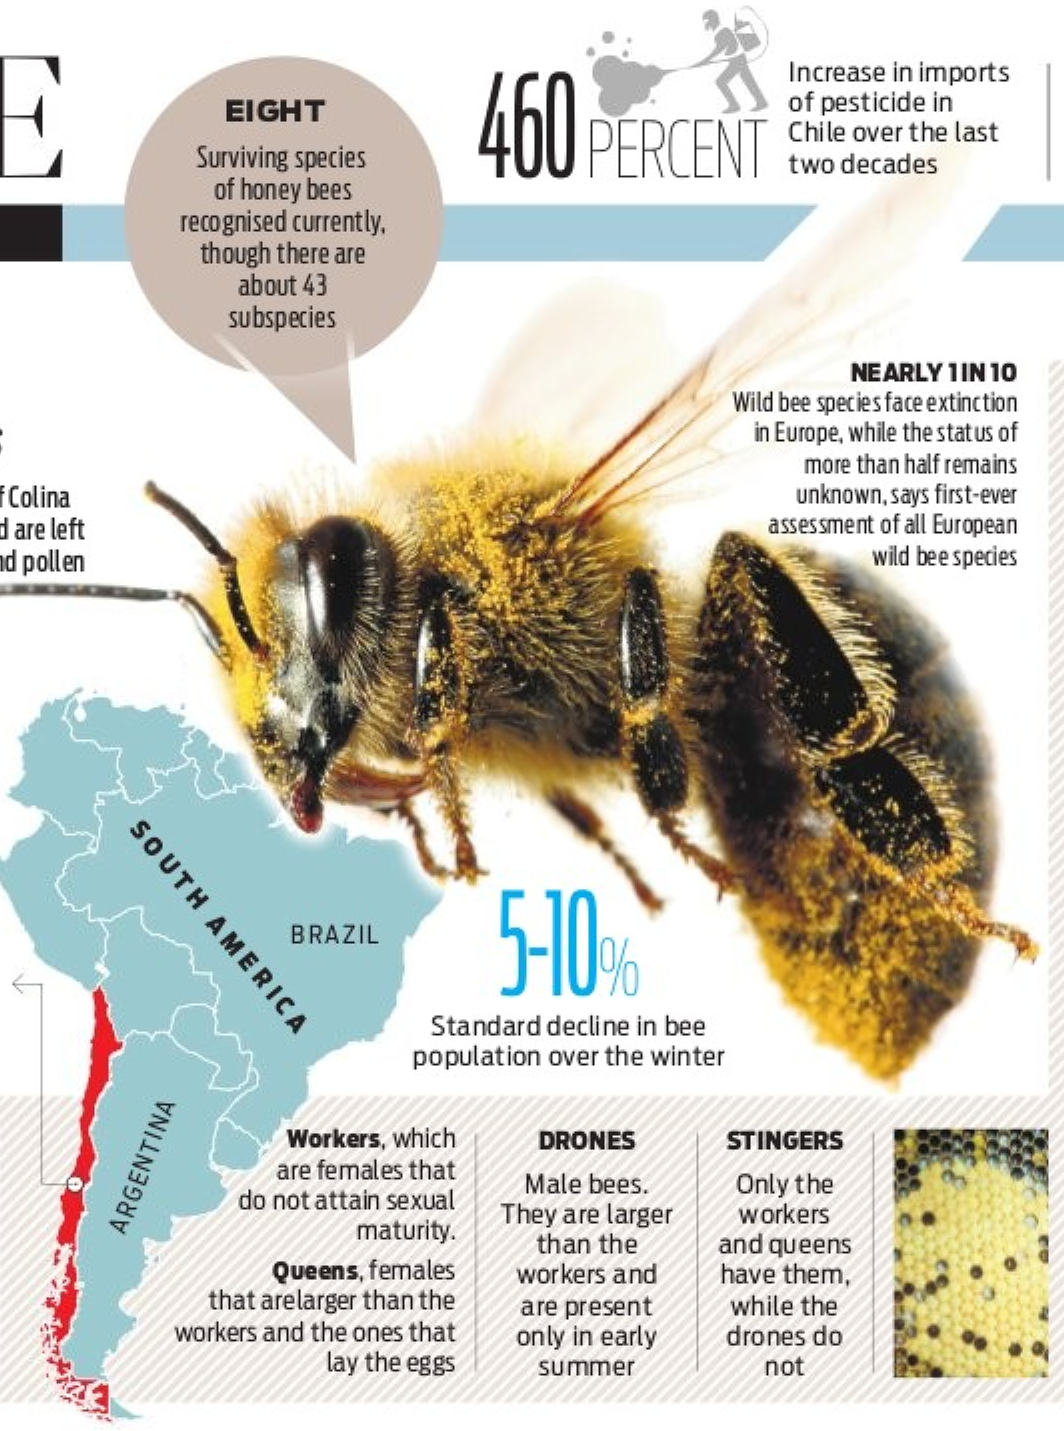
THE SPECIES FOUND IN CHILE
Western or European honey bee (Apis mellifera)



NEARLY 1 IN 10
Wild bee species face extinction in Europe, while the status of more than half remains unknown, says first-ever assessment of all European wild bee species

5-10%
Standard decline in bee population over the winter

HIVES
A series of combs composed of two layers of six-sided cells made of wax produced and secreted by the workers. Food in the form of honey, plant nectar, and so-called bee bread, made from pollen, is stored in the cells

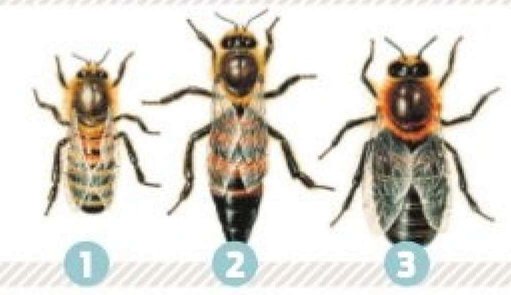
DANCING FORM OF COMMUNICATION
The honeybee is remarkable for the dancing movements it performs to communicate information to its fellow bees about the location, distance, size and quality of a particular food source in the surrounding area

HONEY EXPORT PLUNGE
Chile has seen its exports of honey plunge over the past four or five years — a decline also aggravated by transport difficulties caused by the pandemic

SUBSTITUTE FOOD
Sugar water augmented with other nutrients is fed to bees by the keepers as an alternative to nectar, but that leaves them unable to produce honey.

The substitute lacks proteins bees need to develop their bodies and nervous systems, and it leaves them more vulnerable to illnesses

ROLE IN SOCIETY
Besides producing honey, honeybees play an important role in agriculture as pollinators of a wide variety of domesticated plants



THREE TYPES OF BEES
1. Worker
2. Queen
3. Drone

Workers, which are females that do not attain sexual maturity.

Queens, females that arelarger than the workers and the ones that lay the eggs

DRONES
Male bees. They are larger than the workers and are present only in early summer

STINGERS
Only the workers and queens have them, while the drones do not

REPRODUCTION
Queens can lay eggs that are either unfertilised or fertilised. Unfertilised eggs develop into drones, whereas fertilised eggs develop into females, which may be either workers or virgin queens

How formula milk marketing affects breastfeeding

Aggressive campaigns by companies are reinforcing untrue myths about breast milk, thus violating international standards on infant feeding practices

HEALTH

GENEVA: A WHO/UNICEF report that surveyed parents and pregnant woman states that more than half of them have been targeted with marketing from formula milk companies, much of which is in breach of international standards on infant feeding practices.

The report highlights how industry marketing techniques include unregulated and i9nvasive online targeting, and the message that parents and health workers receive are often misleading, scientifically unsubstantiated and in violation of the International Code of Marketing of Breast-milk Substitutes, a landmark public health agreement passed by the World Health Assembly in 1981 to protect mothers from aggressive marketing practices by the baby food industry.

"This report shows very clearly that formula milk marketing remains unacceptably pervasive, misleading and aggressive," said Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, WHO Director-General. "Regulations on exploitative marketing must be urgently adopted and enforced to protect children's health."

The report surveyed 8,50-0 parents and 300 health workers in cities across Bangladesh, China, Mexico, Morocco, Nigeria, South Africa, the United Kingdom and Vietnam. Exposure to formula milk marketing reaches 84 per cent of all women surveyed in the UK, 92 per cent in Vietnam and 97 per cent in China, increasing their likelihood of choosing formula feeding.

"False and misleading messages about formula feeding are a substantial barrier to breastfeeding, which we know is best for babies and mothers," said UNICEF Executive Director Catherine Russell. "We need robust policies, legislation and investments in breastfeeding to ensure that women are protected from unethical marketing practices -- and have access to the information and support they need to raise their families."

> We need robust policies, legislation and investments in breastfeeding to ensure women are protected from unethical marketing practices and have access to the information and support they need
> Catherine Russell, UNICEF Executive Director

Women across nations in the survey have expressed a strong desire to breastfeed exclusively. Yet, a sustained influx of misleading marketing along with the unethical reinforcement of untrue myths about breast milk is swaying public belief.

Breastfeeding within the first hour of birth, followed by exclusive breastfeeding for six months and continued breastfeeding for up to two years or beyond, offers a powerful line of defence against all forms of child malnutrition, including wasting and obesity. It also acts as babies' first vaccine, protecting them against many common childhood illnesses. Yet globally, only 44 per cent of babies less than 6 months old are exclusively breastfed. Global breastfeeding rates have increased very little in the past two decades, while sales of formula milk have more than doubled in roughly the same time.

Alarmingly, the report notes that large numbers of health workers in all countries had been approached by the baby feeding industry to influence their recommendations to new mothers through promotional gifts, free samples, funding for research, paid meetings, events and conferences, and even commissions from sales, directly impacting parents' feeding choices.

To address these challenges, WHO, UNICEF and partners are calling on governments, health workers, and the baby food industry to end exploitative formula milk marketing and fully implement and abide by the Code requirements. UNICEF

These prosthetics craftsmen repair people in Venezuela

MEDICINE

CARACAS: "I used to repair car tires. Now I repair humans," boasts Jose Bastidas, an amputee who left his auto repair job to make artificial limbs in Venezuela, where the health system has all but collapsed. "Getting someone to walk is priceless," the 41-year-old told AFP at the Zona Bionica workshop in Caracas.

Bastidas joined the company as a trainee prosthetics manufacturer seven years ago after losing his right leg in a road accident. "I don't earn much," he said, "but it is thrilling to see people stand up."

There are no statistics on the number of amputees in Venezuela, a country of 30 million people, where three out of four live in extreme poverty, according to a recent study.

The latest data, from 2008, showed that 130,000 people in Venezuela had a physical disability that affects mobility, including amputees. Zona Bionica says the majority of its clients lost a limb due to a medical problem, such as diabetes, or traffic accidents.

Besides the physical and emotional shock, survivors also have to contend with the cost. Except for a lucky few beneficiaries of philanthropy, most have to pay all or most of the $1,800 price for the cheapest prosthesis, which needs to be replaced every two years. The average salary in Venezuela, battered by recession and hyperinflation, is about $50 per month.

Heidy Garcia, 30, works in the back office of Zona Bionica, which also runs sponsorship campaigns for amputees in need. Garcia lost her right leg due to a blood circulation problem four years ago, and proudly displays a personalized turquoise replacement limb under short pants. "It is very hard at first," said Garcia, referring to phantom pain, cramps and having to get used to attaching the prosthesis, which she managed to acquire through a crowd-funding campaign. "But you have to keep going and to accept. The mind is very strong." Garcia said the fact that most of Zona Bionica's workers are amputees brings comfort to new patients. AFP

FACT OF THE MATTER

The right trees for urban forests

ENVIRONMENT

Just as climate change has damaged over 10 million hectares of forests in Canada's British Columbia, it is killing trees in cities too. In urban environments, trees are threatened by heatwaves and lack of rain, both predicted to increase in coming decades. Towns and cities are often home to a great diversity of trees, including those with a high tolerance of climate extremes, but species' selection criteria and climate-risk assessments are poorly documented. Tree selection and planning are important. We need to choose the right trees for the right location. Identifying and quantifying what leads to poor growth or death can optimise resources and minimise financial losses for local governments and residents.

How to deal with climate grief? Inuits show how

CLIMATE CHANGE

PARIS: Marilyn Baikie's remote Inuit community has more wisdom than they could ever want about ecological grief. These "people of the sea ice" have endured years of dramatic warming that is ravaging their beloved landscape at the edge of the Arctic, forcing them to reimagine a way of life that goes back centuries.

"It affects how you live your life, it affects the things you do with your children, it really is affecting people's mental health," said Baikie, a community health worker in Rigolet, a coastal village of 300 people in Canada's Labrador region.

The Inuit village of Kugluktuk in the Canadian territory of Nunavut | AFP

Before this region became one of the fastest-warming places on the planet, people could travel across frozen waters until spring, to fish or go deep into countryside that is a profound part of their identity.

Now they often worry the ice won't hold. So when in winter the thermometer goes to up to zero – or higher -- Baikie knows people will need extra support. She and colleagues organise activities to ease stress and fill the "empty time" for people stranded by the warmth, like craft workshops and knowledge sharing between elders and young people. Still, people feel isolated. "When you talk about it, it really tugs at your heart."

But it was talking about it that made the Inuit elders among the first to sound the alarm about the wrenching grief wrought by climate change. Opening up to researchers more than a decade ago, they described the land like a family member. A decade later, these experiences and coping strategies are part of a growing understanding of the mental health toll of environmental destruction. AFP

DAY'S DIARY

Killer cold

On this day in 2018, cold weather (as low as -30°C) nicknamed "the Beast from the East" hit Europe, killing several people and covering cities in snow

SHUT INS AND OUTS

The cold snap across Europe forced the closure of airports in Scotland, Switzerland, France and Ireland, and left many stranded on snowy highways

CAUSE FOR CONCERN

Scientists said it was partly caused by the weakening of strong winds that keep cold air 'locked' over the Arctic, releasing icy blasts across the northern hemisphere

BIG CHANGES

The Colosseum was blanketed in snow for the first time in years; France opened up extra emergency shelters, and in Belguim, police detained those who refused shelter

WHITE ON WHITE

Alia Bhatt's latest look, created by city-based boutique Madhurya Creation, during the promotion of her latest movie Gangubai Kathiawadi, has grabbed several eyeballs

MONIKA MONALISA

CAN whites ever go out of fashion? The answer is 'no' and Bollywood actor Alia Bhatt shows you why there is nothing called too much white in the wardrobe. The Jamdani white saree from city-based handloom boutique Madhurya Creation, which Bhatt recently wore for the promotion of her latest movie Gangubai Kathiawadi, has grabbed many eyeballs.

Filmmaker Sanjay Leela Bhansali's magnum opus Gangubai Kathiawadi, which released on Friday, is already gathering rave reviews for Bhatt's performance in portraying the title role. While the actor has been busy with promotions, for the Kolkata leg of it, she wore the Jamdani saree. "The saree comes from a village, Phulia, in West Bengal, situated on the banks of river Ganga. The beauty of the saree lies in its simplicity and elegance," says Bharathy Harish, director of Madhurya Creation. The saree is currently priced at ₹9,800.

Going by the theme of the movie, Bhatt's promotional look has included only whites, a colour often linked with elegance. The 28-year-old actor paired the semi-sheer white saree strewn with intricate flower motifs, along with a sleek V-neck blouse. She completed the look with a pair of gold-toned earrings.

Jamdani is a traditional loom with its history dating back to centuries. Bhatt's pristine look has been bookmarked by many fashion enthusiasts. "That's the beauty of an heirloom piece. One can always find a contemporary way to suit the times," says Harish, adding, "This loom is so versatile that it would go with any Indian traditional attire." Jamdani, which currently has its Geographical Identification tag as Dhaka, was originally known as Dhakai. But the name Jamdani got its popularity under the Mughal Empire. "Jamdani has been traditionally popular with royals and poets who have often described it as a 'sheet on moon'," explains Harish.

RECREATE THE LOOK

To get a vintage feel, go for an all-white look. Pair the white Jamdani saree with a white blouse with light embroidery work. Tone down the jewellery by pairing it with studs and a simple gold chain. Create the drama by accentuating the hair, putting it into a bun and accessorising it with white roses. For a contemporary look, team the saree with a contrast coloured blouse to give that colour pop. Complete the look with statement shoulder dusters. Shun the neckpiece by letting the pristine white saree speak for itself.

FIT BIT

SAVASANA VARIATION BENT LEGS

(CONSTRUCTIVE REST POSE)

It is mainly practised to bring more awareness to the body, especially the lower back and lower abdomen. Students need to be aware of the knees and hips, since the chances of losing stability with them is more. The core muscles at times are neglected while relaxing or cooling down at the end of the sequence. This is called Alexander Technique that helps you understand your body better in relieving pain, stiffness, spasm, etc., that occur with every day body posture that is wrong.

STEPS

- Sit on the floor extending the legs out in Dandasana (Staff Pose). From here, slowly turn towards the right side, bend your knees and lie down resting the right side on the floor.
- Exhale and gently roll on your back and settle your head. Bring the feet on the floor with knees bent. Rest the hands on the sides or keep on your belly.
- Bring the feet hip distance apart, and the heels about 12-16 inches away from the pelvis.
- Just close your eyes and allow gravity to help settle the body on the ground. You don't have to settle your body consciously.
- Even not doing anything is a great way to heal the body as the tensions which are mostly time embedded in the deeper tissues and muscles release.
- Stay here as long as you feel comfortable. Practise initially for 15 minutes and gradually increase to 30 minutes.
- Open your eyes and turn to the left and take a few moments here. Slowly sit up, stay for a minute before getting up.

– by N Elumalai, PhD scholar (Yoga Science) at Meenakshi Academy of Higher Education & Research, Chennai

BENEFITS

- It can be a transition pose.
- Great way to recover, allowing gravity to help settle the body.
- This pose does wonders for those who want to relax and release the tensions at the psoas muscles.
- Keeping the physical, mental, and emotional balance in the body and taking care of them can be the best way to ease the body of blockages.
- Offers relief from anxiety and depression-related symptoms.
- Pregnant women will find comfort relaxing in this pose.
- Keep the body relaxed while finding deep connections within the body as per Alexander Technique.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who have back pain, herniated disc, migraine, heart-related issues, breathing difficulties, pregnant women, and senior citizens should consider using either a cushion, or blanket, to support the head.

PARADISE LOST AND REGAINED

THERE is a feeling of joie-de-vivre in the air and everybody (including yours truly) is throwing caution to the winds. When I included myself in the 'young & restless category', I meant it figuratively. I am still an adult with responsibilities, and though my world has extended beyond the confines of my house, sanitising and masking up has stayed intact. In fact, now I am being shamed for false-facing (lit lingo for masking up!).

I continue to be a big advocate for not working around Cardi-V but working with it, but now, my inflexible attitudes are changing. Two years of our lives have been wiped off the face of this earth. Initially I desperately believed that the universe had temporarily opened up a door into the twilight-zone and if we ever came out of that worm-hole it would be as more magnanimous and better versions of ourselves. But Alack!(as my favourite bard Shakespeare would say),no one here was a 'mender of bad soles'! As people, it did not take us long to revert to our old ways of jealousy, sloth, envy, you name it. Even a jaded person will be blind-sided with the ruthlessness of human invidiousness. In short, welcome back to a world where people use masks to camouflage and not for virus protection!

Thankfully, there are still some of us who will be happy at the success of our children, their friends and our friends. Alysha Vazirally and my daughter Alisha have been friends from the time they lisped their way into our lives. Now the fabulously gorgeous girl (both inside and outside) is a self-assured young woman with a post-graduation degree under her belt from Singapore. She survived the pandemic by nurturing her artistic side, and since the sand and sea are her muses, she has come out with a fabulous resort wear line called 'Siolistory'. She invited just a couple of people over high tea to 'check it out' (as she says). I was blown away...simple trendy, affordable and stylish!

Amit and Pratiksha are the epitome of what young entrepreneurs look like in our city. They embody everything that is new and exciting and are ready to take that leap of faith. Amit has opened a string of restaurants in the city and just opened up another called Brassa, which serves the best dishes from a multitude of cuisines! Pratiksha has recently opened her own venture called Table-Scapes where she designs and decorates the most stunning table accessories, making the tables look almost ethereal. These young adults and their ilk are Bengaluru products, committed, unstoppable and respectful.

Suresh Hinduja is a formidable 'Bangalore-force' to deal with. A man with many talents (including the art of storytelling), this respected bon vivant curated a Sindhi food festival (with authentic food from the Sindh Province) on the lawns of Hotel Royal Orchid. Passionate and knowledgeable, he is afraid this type of 'painstaking made fare' may end up on the endangered list! It was great to enjoy Bengaluru's outdoors once again, with a gentle breeze and a cauldron of simmering mutton in the background.

Paradise regained perhaps?

MIXOLOGY

Abhilash Menon

(The writer is mixologist and partner - Studs Sportsbar and Grill, JP Nagar)

POPULARLY known as the prohibition time cocktail created for and by gangsters to camouflage the booze inside coffee or tea to avoid the law passed by the US Congress in 1917, the Long Island Iced Tea has transcended its origins to remain one of the popular cocktails among young and old. The origin is not really known, and two Long Islands, one in Tennessee and the other in New York compete for where it originated.

Over the years, many mixologists and barmen have innovated and given their own twist to the classic recipe. Here are some easy ones that can be prepared at home:

The Blue Steeple Chase

Puneeth Rajkumar

INTRODUCTORY SONG FROM PUNEETH RAJKUMAR'S JAMES TO BE OUT ON SHIVARATRI

CE FEATURES

THE makers of Puneeth Rajkumar's James, who recently wowed the audience with the teaser, are set to release the much-awaited introduction lyrical song featuring the Power Star on Mahashivaratri (March 1). Meanwhile, the action commercial entertainer, which is slated to release on March 17, has been submitted to the censor board for certification. James, which is the last commercial film starring late actor Puneeth Rajkumar, is one of the most expected films in Karnataka, and across other regions as well. The film, backed by Kishore Pathikonda, has Shivarajkumar dubbing for his brother.

James has an ensemble cast and will feature Puneeth in multiple shades. The film starring Priya Anand as the female lead, also stars Sarath Kumar, Meka Srikanth, Chikkanna, Shine Shetty, and Tilak playing prominent roles. James has music by Charan Raj and cinematography by J Swamy.

Suni-Dushyanth's fantasy drama titled Gathavaibhava

A formal announcement will be made by the makers on Feburary 28

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Suni is launching newcomer Dushyanth in a film titled, Gathavaibhava. A formal announcement to be made by the makers on February 28 at 10.10 am. Meanwhile has the director revealing the hero's characterisation, and the film's one-liner.

Dushyanth will play a VFX aritst, who has an actual visualisation of all the sketches created by him. The fantasy element of this fantasy drama kicks in when he gets puzzled whether it is real or his imagination. The film will also have comedic elements.

Apart from Dushyanth, Suni hasn't zeroed in on other members of the cast. However, Suni has roped in his Simple Agi Ondh Love Story and Baahuparak composer Bharath BJ as the music director for Gathavaibhava. The other technical crew include Avatara Purusha and Vikrant Rona DOP William David and KGF art director Shivakumar. Suni, who is awaiting for the release of his upcoming Avatara Purusha starring Sharan and Ashika Ranganath plans to begin shooting for Gathavaibhava in April. Suni had earlier announced another film with Dushyanth, which was titled, Robinhood. However, this film was put on hold due to the pandemic and Suni-Dushyanth are set to move on with Gathavaibhava in April. Dushyanth, who has been practicing theatre since 2018 hold acting certificate from Tent cinema by Nagathihalli Chandrashekhar and Pushkar Acting Institute. He's been a part of Acting workshops by Neenasam Dhananjay and by theater artist Krishna.

Dushyanth has participated in several street plays and theater plays in Bangalore and Mysore. He got his dance skills trained from Shaimak Davar institute, Bhushan Master and Raju Master, and has been trained in martial arts and gymnastics.

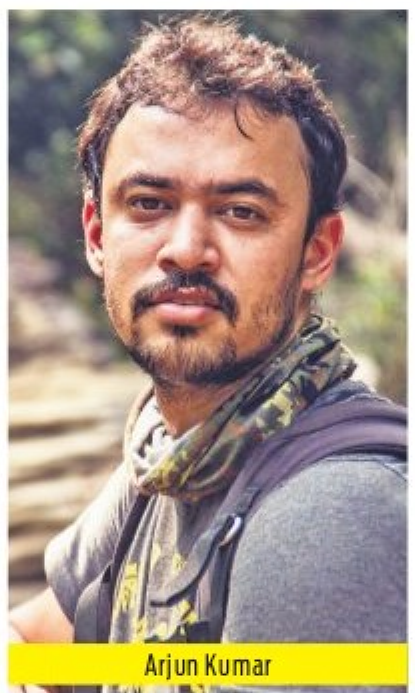
Family Pack director Arjun Kumar gets ready to head to Tollywood



Arjun Kumar

CE FEATURES

FAMILY Pack director Arjun Kumar has caught the attention of Tollywood filmmakers. The director's romantic family entertainer, backed by PRK Production and starring Likith Shetty and Amrutha Iyengar in the lead roles, was released on February 17, and received appreciation for its content.

Arjun is said to be now in talks with well-known Telugu producer Vamsi for a new project. A formal announcement will be made soon. Arjun Kumar will be the latest filmmaker from Kannada to join the bandwagon of directors, who are making a mark in the Telugu film industry.

THIS COMEDY-DRAMA WILL DEFINITELY LIFT OUR SPIRITS

A SHARADHAA

WITH Old Monk as the title, and the innovative posters, trailers, teasers, and songs from the film ensured to pique the interests of the audience. Director-actor Srini's latest outing retains his signature style and is a film that will remind the audience of actor Anant Nag's earlier comedy films.

RATING 3.5/5

The film, which explores the urban middle class life, is a thorough comedy entertainer that also has a profound message. The plot begins with a touch of mythology -- Krishna fights with Rukmini and ends up cursing Narada to lead a life on earth. The curse will end for Narada only if he finds love and family acceptance. Unfortunately, Narada is born in a family that does not believe in love marriages. He is even named Appanna (Srini) by his strict father (S Narayan) so that girls treat him as their father or brother. As Appanna grows up, he becomes Appu, and works as a HR manager of a private company. Even as his family start looking for a prospective alliance, Appu gets attracted to Abhignya (Aditi Prabhudeva). Will he succeed in love and marriage sums up Old Monk.

The strength of this film are the dialogues, which are comical and profound. The clean lines are worthy of applause. Aruna Balraj, who plays Srini's mother, is the film's soul, and her conversation with her husband on their 25th wedding anniversary is thought-provoking.

Srini's unconventional story is of high merit and he sure will go a long way as a director and actor. Sujay Shastry as the sidekick brings all the comic relief, and his funny one-liners are brilliant. Aditi Prabhudeva gives a mature and controlled performance and Sudesh Nair as the antagonist, brings an interesting twist.

Old Monk is a good entertainer, but not without its loopholes. The film breezes through with funny dialogues, and although there are pacing issues in the second half, all's well that ends well.

Overall, the film featuring a handful of veterans puts you through some nostalgic moments, and delivers a good mix of comedy and drama.

A deeply romantic drama with a twist of hate

A SHARADHAA

WITH his latest outing, Ek Love Ya, director Prem has tried to delve into the theme of a love-hate relationship between youngsters with added elements of parent-children bonding. What makes the film noteworthy is the element of curiosity that comes with the starcast comprising of newcomers like Raanna and Reeshma Nanaiah,

The film attempts to paint a saga of true love that faces ups and downs including separations and sacrifices. The film begins with a college graduation event, and introduces Amar (Raanna), a topper in school, who is fulfilling his father Shankar's (Shashikumar) wish of becoming a lawyer. However, Amar is always seen as a chain smoker and alcoholic, who is in search of Anitha, his childhood lover, whom he wants to... kill!

RATING 3.5/5

Through a flashback told to a sex worker (Ankita Naik), we are shown Amar's childhood love story that went awry and resulted in his then crush Anitha leaving with her parents to a different town. Unable to recover from the loss, Amar wants to take revenge on Anitha. As the narrative progresses, we have thrilling second half where Amar is in jail because of his love. Did Amar actually avenge his love? Is he actually innocent? Will he reclaim his love? The answers to these questions and more make this heartbreaking (at times) romantic drama watchable.

Prem's Ek Love Ya focuses on the power of true love, and is mounted on a huge canvas by Rakshita Film Factory. Although the subject taken up by the director is familiar, the topic is still relevant. The love episodes are lengthy and emotional, and the second half, which is packed with courtroom scenes fails to make the required impact.

On the acting front, Prem has managed to extract the right kind of emotions from Raanna and Reeshma Nanaiah. While Raana is saddled with a lot of responsibilities, he does manage to pull it off. Reeshma looks ravishing and justifies her role. Their onscreen chemistry, which is the lifeline of the film, is perfect. Although Rachita Ram does steal the show in her role as a lawyer, the scenes needed to be better. Senior actors like Charan Raj and Shashikumar, along with Suchendra Prasad lend depth to the narratives with their presence and performance.

However, the antagonists Arjun Gowda and Yash Shetty have little presence.

Composer Arjun Janya and DoP Mahendra Simha are the strengths of Ek Love Ya. The melodious songs, perfect picturisation, and slick cinematography makes the film visually appealing. Points to the stunt choreography too for delivering a few creative sequences. With lovely locales and a colourful vibe to the proceedings, it is clear that Ek Love Ya has rich production qualities. However, the film's length does not work for the film, but the romantic drama with a solid twist is definitely a one-time watch.

GANGUBAI KATHIAWADI: EMPTY BHANSALI ELEGANCE

SHILAJIT MITRA

SENTIMENTALITY isn't a mere feature in a Sanjay Leela Bhansali film. It's everything – canvas, paint brush, paint. Much of it is reserved for people the director holds close to heart. His past films have been dedicated to his parents, grandparents and pet dog. Similar dedications open Gangubai Kathiawadi, with two additions: Pandit Birju Maharaj and Lata Mangeshkar. The late maestros weren't involved with the project; Sanjay is so overwhelmed by their recent demise that he lets that grief wash all over his film.

RATING 2.5/5

This urge to eulogize—to look on admiringly at a mythic, bygone figure—stunts this biopic greatly. The film is adapted from a section of the book Mafia Queens of Mumbai. The queen in question is Gangubai, a respected brothel keeper who rose in 60s Mumbai. We meet Gangu (Alia Bhatt), sweary and sharp-tongued, as she entreats a scared greenhorn into the flesh trade. Over flashbacks, Gangu's past life unfurls, from her elopement with a sweet-talking lover to him selling her off at Kamathipura, Mumbai's red-light district.

The opening sequences are riven with pain and brutality. Like the underage girl she consoles later on, Gangu's initiation too happens by force. She is further brutalized by Saukat Khan, a violent Pathan from the neighbourhood. She approaches Rahim Lala—named changed from Karim Lala—for help, and wins his protection. Ajay Devgn is commanding as the dour, kohl-eyed gangster, having played a version of his contemporary Haji Mastan in Once Upon a Time in Mumbaai. Still, it's rather unimaginative to give him a facial scar—a detail implying an awkward kinship with bruised, sewed-up Gangu. "Gangubai's goodness is, of course, just one side of the coin"—Hussain Zaidi and Jane Borges write in their source book. Sanjay has no interest in this other side. He elevates Gangu as a reformist and a protector, leveraging her newfound influence with Lala to win elections and become the President of Kamathipura. She rescues and rehabilitates a minor from our own household (it's staged as a grand sacrifice on her part). She goes toe-to-toe with a local school. It's all great but where is the lowdown? Were Gangu's predecessors really all evil, and she all good? How did she square her sympathy for young, defenseless girls with the larger demands of her trade? We're never told.

By some luck, there isn't a CGI animal in sight, and Sanjay has cut back on the sprawl and extravagance of his last feature, the galumphing Padmaavat. His Kamathipura is a few busy streets and a square. It's lined by ornate storefronts, cafes, theatres—and pedestrians and traders of all faiths. Indoors, the camera swoops down on an angular courtyard, where Gangu presides. She is pushed to the center of most frames, vignetteing the other, duskier girls. A couple of frames stand out: Gangu skipping rope with her friend, or lashing out furiously under the moon.

Alia holds the gaze in her first leading role in a while. She is hobbled by the bombaiyaa accent—the words stream out with a filmy, gangster-y force. Gangu is a winner and a boss, flipping almost every situation she's in to her gain. Her tussle with Sheela bai (an excellent Seema Pahwa) is more tense and engaging than her bland rivalry with Razia (a local trans woman played by Vijay Raaz). Their characters, at times, seem to argue in verse, like a 60s version of Gully Boy's rap battles.

Sanjay's cinema hasn't turned a corner in years. 'Dholia' and 'Jhume Re Gori' are nods to earlier songs, though there's much invention to the lush, entertaining 'Meri Jaan'. The supporting cast is a stack of cameos—many familiar from past Bhansali films. Certain frames are Sawariya blue, others are Bajirao Mastani gold. The visuals dry up before the extended finale does. Sanjay, it appears, has reached a saturation point. Where next to go?
